CAPITAL GROUP DEMANDS ACTION

Insists Proposal for Arbitration of Steel Strike Be Made Immediate Issue

Wilson Against Adjournment Till All Means Are Exhausted to Solve Problem

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Demand that organized labor's proposal for arbitration of the steel strike be made an immediate issue in the national industrial conference, was made today by the capital group, through its chairman, Harry A. Wheeler, Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the public group had proposed that action on the steel resolution be postponed until Thursday.

Postponement of action on the resolution previously had been agreed to by the labor and public groups, and the opposition of the employers came as a surprise. Samuel Gompers, chairman of the labor group, who conducted a vigorous fight yesterday against sending the arbitration resolution back to the committee of 15, was detained by illness. He was represented by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

On a ruling by Chairman Lane that the Baruch motion was one of procedure on which individual votes could be cast, action on the steel resolution was postponed until next Thursday and the conference recessed until afternoon. The public and labor groups cast their individual votes for the Baruch motion.

SHOE SHOP PICKETERS FINED $25 EACH

Fines of $25 each were imposed by Judge Fisher in police court today in the cases of three so-called "peaceful picketers." George W. Racine, business agent of the Allied Shoe Workers union, John Zimmerman and Joseph Hebert, found guilty of threatening John Hooghasian, referred to as a "strike breaker," at the Spaulding Shoe Co., where a strike has been on for 12 weeks. Hooghasian's testimony was that the three "picketers" had shouted up to him, as he was standing near a window in the plant on Oct. 4, that they would pull off his mustache and beat him up if he would come outside. All three entered an appeal.

The case was first heard last Friday, when Atty. E. J. Tierney presented the evidence for the prosecution. Hooghasian, besides relating the details of the alleged threats, said that he had slept in the plant afterwards, being afraid to venture outside. His testimony was corroborated by several young women, who have been employed at the plant since the inception of the strike.

The defense, guided by Atty. D. J. Donahue, presented its case today. Zimmerman and Hebert said they had been doing picket duty at the plant on the day in question, and that Hooghasian had made insulting remarks to them from his place by the window. Racine also admitted being on the scene.

They admitted inviting him to come outside, but said they had made no threats to beat him up or remove the picket line from his upper lip. They were engaged in "peaceful picketing," which was within their rights, and had not attempted to forcibly prevent employees from performing their work. Hooghasian was continuously making fun of them, they declared.

Atty. Donahue, in summing up the case said that he believed the present case was a deliberate attempt to put the union in disrepute so that an order restraining them from "peaceful picketing" will be ordered by the courts. The attitude of the company was an example of the attitude of many manufacturing plants throughout the country, he asserted.

Presenting the complainant's case, Atty. Tierney said that the methods employed by the so-called peaceful picketers were anything but peaceful and that he believed that not only Hooghasian, but other employees at the plant had been forced to sleep and practically live in the building as a result of intimidation by the strikers. Hooghasian had been compelled to live "like a rat in a hole," he said, since he had aroused the wrath of the "peaceful picketers."

SAMUEL GOMPERS ILL

A. F. of L. President Said to Be Suffering From a Nervous Breakdown

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor is confined to his home here in a state of nervous exhaustion. His temperature this morning was 101 degrees and his physician has ordered him to remain in bed.

Announcement of Mr. Gompers' breakdown was made by his secretary when the national industrial conference convened today. He issued the following statement: "Mr. Gompers returned home from the industrial conference last evening very greatly exhausted and went immediately to bed. His physician, Dr. Henry Parker, was called in to see him. He found Mr. Gompers in a state of nervous exhaustion, with a temperature of 101. The doctor said it would be absolutely necessary for Mr. Gompers to remain in bed."

Mr. Gompers' illness results, labor leaders said, from months of unremitting work at home and abroad, in connection with the peace treaty, the international labor congress at Amsterdam and the steel strike.

The veteran labor leader was stricken when he reached his home last night after delivering an attack in the industrial conference on the United States Steel corporation for its refusal to deal with the steel strike committee.

His friends recalled that the day was the first anniversary of the death of his daughter and they said this fact probably aggravated his condition.

Those who heard Mr. Gompers' impassioned address in the conference yesterday, realized that he was laboring under a tremendous nervous strain and the announcement of his illness did not come as a surprise to his associates in the labor group.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, was elected chairman of the labor group in the conference today to act for Mr. Gompers.

Labor leaders said that if Mr. Gompers' illness proved so serious as to make it impossible for him to discharge the duties of president of the federation for any considerable time, the executive council of the federation would be called to elect a temporary successor. It was said that James Duncan, first vice-president of the federation, probably would be designated to act.

VOTE TODAY ON SHANTUNG

Agreement Reported Reached By Democratic and Republican Senators

Republican Leaders Agree to Curtail Speeches—Sen. Colt Against Amendments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A vote by the senate late today on the Shantung amendments to the peace treaty was planned by republican leaders with acquiescence, it was said, of the democrats.

Republican spokesmen said inquiries were sent to Senator Johnson of California, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, and other republicans regarding speeches of the Shantung amendment and that they agreed to curtail their remarks.

Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee, author of the Shantung amendments, also was said to have agreed to a vote today.

Adoption of textual amendments would mean defeat of the peace treaty and would accomplish no practical result that could not be brought about by reservations, the senate was told today by Senator Colt, republican, Rhode Island.

Referring to the Shantung amendment and that proposed to equalize voting power in the League of Nations, the Rhode Island senator declared they would reopen peace negotiations while reservations would leave the treaty intact and would change its provisions only for the reserving nations.

It would be unfair, he argued, to increase the voting power of the United States as proposed in the amendment of Senator Johnson, republican, California, and elude the other first class powers with only one vote in the assembly.

COAL COMPANY RECEIVES VERDICT OF $259

A sealed verdict in the sum of $259.50 was rendered this morning at the civil session of the superior court in the case of the Middlesex Coal & Grain Co. of Bedford vs. George P. Dickey of Billerica. This was an action of contract by which the company sought to recover a little over $300 and interest for merchandise alleged to have been sold to the defendant. ## BREAK IN RANKS OF STRIKERS

N. Y. Ferryworkers and 15,000 Longshoremen Back at Work

Action Brings Relief—City Was Threatened With Food Shortage

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The strike of longshoremen and other harbor workers, which has paralyzed port activities here for several days and threatened a serious food shortage, was broken today when the ferryworkers and 15,000 of the 80,000 longshoremen returned to work. Union leaders predicted that by Friday, all of the longshoremen would be at work.

The ferryman at midnight unexpectedly decided to return immediately, accepting, with reservation, the government's compromise wage increase offer. Before dawn all of the ferries were plying the Hudson as usual.

Six longshoremen's locals, with a membership of 15,000, have voted to return at once and strike leaders said the remainder of the unions would take action during the next few days. The strikers voted to abide by the wage award of the national commission, pending further negotiations on Dec. 1.

The teamsters' strike remains in force as the men decided last night that they would not return until they receive more definite propositions concerning an adjustment of their demands.

It was announced that half of the city's food reserve had been consumed through the joint strikes of the longshoremen and teamsters.

BISHOP GARRIGAN DEAD

Noted Churchman Received Early Training in Lowell—Sketch of His Life

Right Rev. Philip J. Garrigan, D.D., bishop of the diocese of Sioux City, Iowa, and a former resident of Lowell, died Tuesday noon at his residence in the western city after a brief illness. He had recently celebrated his 80th birthday.

In the death of Bishop Garrigan there is noted the passing of another member of the large company of ecclesiastical leaders who received their early training and education in this city and who later left a marked impression in the spiritual sphere in which they gave unstintingly of their time and talents. Of this company the late bishop of Sioux City may be termed as one of the most accomplished and able.

Relatives of Bishop Garrigan reside in this city and the first word they received of what proved to be his fatal illness came in the form of a telegram Saturday saying that the bishop was seriously ill. Miss Alice T. Lee, of 12 South Walker street, well known as supervisor of primary grades in the local school department and president of the League of Catholic Women, niece of Bishop Garrigan, made preparations immediately to go on to Sioux City, but was unable to get accommodations until Monday morning.

Rev. Michael Roman, late pastor of St. Peter's church of this city, was one of Bishop Garrigan's most intimate friends and Rev. Fr. Roman had the pleasure of serving as one of the deacons at the funeral.

WHEELER FULLER BACK FROM OVERSEAS

Wheeler Fuller, well known to Lowell baseball fans because of his connection with the Lawrence team of the old New England league, has returned to Lowell after interesting overseas experience and plans to make his home here until next spring when he will go south with the Washington American league team for spring training.

While overseas Fuller had the honor of organizing, managing and pitching for the champion nine of the American Expeditionary Force. His team had its headquarters at Le Mans and not only defeated all the American teams, but also won two out of three games in an inter-allied series with a representative Canadian outfit.

Fuller will be readily remembered by local fans who followed the fortunes of the Lowell team of the New England league in the period extending from 1913 to 1916. He was one of the leading pitchers of the Lawrence club and took part in many a memorable battle between the two cities' diamond representatives.

CONSTRUCTION BIDS TOO HIGH

On Opening Proposals Auditorium Commission Finds Lowest Cost Excessive

Estimates Will Have to Be Cut as No More Money Will Be Asked For

Proposals for the building of Lowell's new memorial auditorium were received, opened and publicly read by the auditorium commission in the permanent chamber at city hall this forenoon and it was found that the estimates of the lowest bidders are accepted, the commission would have to have at least $100,000 in addition to the $1,000,000 already voted. Following the opening of the bids John H. Harrington, chairman of the commission, stated that the figures would have to be cut before the commission would proceed further with the work.

According to the lowest bids received this morning the auditorium construction will cost $882,310. The architect is entitled to six per cent of this amount for his services, or $52,938.60, making a total of $935,248.60. The commission now has on hand about $800,000.

The call for bids brought forth a fairly large number of proposals, considering the present uncertain labor situation and high cost of materials. No less than 24 concerns entered bids for the completion of various parts of the building. Just one half this number were Lowell firms and the rest of Boston, New York or Springfield.

The bidding was divided into four general classifications: General contract, plumbing, electrical work and heating.

There were seven bidders for the general contract, three of Lowell and the others from out of town. The lowest bidder was Connors Bros. Co., Inc., of this city, whose bid was $782,005. If awarded the contract this firm agrees to have the building ready for occupancy on or before Oct. 15, 1920.

The other Lowell firms which took part in the general contract bidding were William Draper and P. O'Brien, The Fred L. Loy Co., Inc., of Springfield, was the second lowest bidder, and was the only firm to enter a proposal on the cost of labor and materials for the building at $738,588, plus a fee of $53,160, making the total estimated cost to the city $791,748.

GREAT PROGRESS IN BIG AIR DERBY

MINEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 15.—With Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, the "flying parson," already off from San Francisco on his return trip to Mineola in the army air service transcontinental race, three of the flyers who completed the first half of the journey here were ready to "hop on" for San Francisco today if weather permitted.

Two of the three, Major Carl Spatz and Lieut. C. E. Kiehl, who flew up and tuck across the continent from San Francisco, had expressed themselves as not anxious to make the return trip. When brother airmen observed the strenuous preparations the two were making for a getaway, it was laughingly remarked that their earlier statements probably had been "strategic." They appeared to be jockeying for the lead and a lively race within a race is predicted.

Captain Lowell H. Smith, whose unofficial flying time was the lowest of all the flyers in the first half of the race, but who was penalized four hours for a forced landing near Cleveland, also was ready this morning to start on the home bound flight. A fourth flyer, Lieut. M. E. Queens, was eligible to start today but expressed the opinion he would not be able to get his plane in shape before tomorrow.

Good Weather For Race

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Forecast of fair weather for most of the far west furnished prospects that Lieut. B. W. Maynard, "flying parson," would equal, if not surpass, his west-bound flying speed, on his eastward journey from Battle Mountain, Nev., today. He covered 356 miles yesterday afternoon in his east-bound flight from San Francisco.

Three more flyers in the transcontinental reliability test expected to begin their return trip from San Francisco today. They were Lieut. Alexander C. Parsons, Jr., Captain J. O. Donaldson and Lieut. Earl Manzmann.

Lieut. Col. T. S. Bowen who arrived from the east yesterday, announced that he would not attempt a return trip.

FAMOUS NOVELIST HERE

Lieut. Coningsby Dawson
Thrills Large Audience
With Story of the War

A war recital of thrilling incidents, told by a man blessed with a fine visionary sense and great powers of imagination was unfolded at the First Congregational church last night by Lieut. Coningsby Dawson. This writer of "The Story of the Trenches" and "Carry On" spoke before a capacity audience and held his listeners spell-bound.

The lecture was the first of a series arranged by the Down-Town Men's club and Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins, pastor of the church, served as presiding officer and introduced Lieut. Dawson.

In part, he spoke as follows:
"This spring I made a trip to Germany. In order to do so I had to traverse most of the battlefields of the north of France. I travelled in a Red Cross train, now converted into a Cologne express. All night long we had been going over these old battlefields. The train had been stopped at little outposts where officers were getting in and out. I had learned that their particular duty was to try and keep law and order, and to try and keep our dead, many of whom were at that time still unburied. Toward morning I fell asleep, and awoke to find that we were in some town. I asked an orderly where we were, and he said at Mons. Perhaps you hardly realize what Mons stood for in the life of the fighting man. This war has been singularly lacking in anything legendary. But at Mons there was one uplifting touch of legend. It was the one place where men believed that God had fought for us.

A Thin, Weary Line
"You will remember that in 1914, when the Germans were driving through to the capture of the channel ports, there was a thin line of weary men, and that was all that was between the Germans and their goal. If they had driven past Mons they would have won the war before Christmas.

Strikes Jeopardize Europe
"In the last strike in England, when the railroad workers went out, the transportation workers realized the danger. They knew that a certain class of men who had grievances were jeopardizing the entire future of Europe. The transportation workers held the balance in their hands. If they had gone out, Europe would have starved. But the transportation workers were almost to a man, men who had been in the transport service at the front. They saw that the issue was higher. That humanity was at stake just as it was when they fought at the front. They refused to go out, and they saved the situation. In Europe among the soldiers there is a general belief that the day of the strike is over. When men have rubbed shoulders at the front, have seen men who were below them rise above them because they are superior fighting men, they have a very different feeling toward the workman.

"Before we can re-make the world we have to re-make ourselves. I think that is one reason why we have not found this dream city which we had in our minds when the war was on. We had to demobilize our instinct to destroy. Every time we dug a trench in France, every time we made a shambles, we dug a trench and we made a shambles in our own minds.

Belgium a Shambles
"I have been to France and Germany and Belgium in order to find out what kind of a world we have to re-make. About two-thirds of industrial France is nothing but scarred walls and broken machinery. They are so impoverished for men that they are planning to run their factories in some cases almost wholly with women. Belgium's case is even more pitiable. Belgium is one heap of ashes.

"It is an affront to pass out of Belgium into Germany. There is greenness, prosperity and a sort of smug contentedness. You have heard over here many stories about the condition of Germany. I am afraid the misconceptions that many people have must be laid at the door of your own statesmen. While the war was on we wanted to believe that Germany was down and out. We won the war. Germany very wisely turned around and O.K'd everything we had said about her. Of course she was down, and out. If we did not help her, she would not be able to pay the indemnity!

A Cardinal Welcome
"For what it is worth, I will tell you what I saw in Germany. I had been wondering what kind of a reception I would get there. I was a British officer in uniform, and I knew what kind of reception a Prussian officer would get in New York. But I found I was welcomed like a long-lost brother. I had come from England, where you could not get into a hotel for love or money, and when you did, they were constantly hinting that it was time for you to get out. In Germany a porter with a shattered leg and an iron cross met me, undid my things and asked me if I would like a hot water bottle in my bed. That was in the spring! He finally told me he hoped I would enjoy myself. Night through Germany, I found this war their line of approach. Finally I asked a German about it. I said I should have thought they would have been very bitter, having set out to conquer the world and having been conquered. He said, 'We are not conquered, we have won.' They had won—only I had not seen it. He said: 'We went to war for commercial reasons. We wanted to extend our world trade. Truly, we did not succeed in capturing big territory, but what we have succeeded in doing is putting out of business our most dangerous trade rivals. France cannot get on her legs, Belgium cannot get on her legs, until we have paid our indemnity. We shall have a start ahead of France and Belgium to capture the world trade. We have won.' From their point of view they have won. I started to speak to them about the atrocities. They were perfectly unconscious-stricken."

LODGE ATTACKS JAPAN

Brands Empire as Menace to U. S.—Debaters Resort to Personalities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Senator Lodge in a prepared speech supporting the Shantung amendment before the senate yesterday, branded Japan as a menace to the United States and scored the empire in the Orient for her broken pledges.

The senator from Massachusetts alleged that the Japanese are building an empire in China which will prove dangerous and declared that she will continue to break her pledges in furtherance of her scheme for China's exploitation.

The five-hour debate over Shantung became bitter, and there were many clashes. Repeatedly the gavel sounded to keep order. Once it was ruled that language used violated the senate's rules by imputing to senators conduct unworthy and unbecoming.

The declaration to which formal objection was taken was made by Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota, in the course of a heated exchange with Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, and had to do with charges that Japan was acting in bad faith in the promise of her statesmen to return Shantung province to China.

"Japan was our associate in the war," said the North Dakota senator, "but I know that now that the war practically has ended, many senators prefer to consider her as our enemy. Germany seems to be more an object of solicitude than our friends who helped us defeat Germany."

Reed Challenges McCumber
"If the senator means that," shouted Senator Reed, "I want him to name the senators to whom he refers."

Senator McCumber retorted that he would let recent utterances in the senate speak for themselves, and when he declined to yield to further questioning by Senator Reed the latter appealed to the chair, declaring loudly while Senator McCumber continued his speech, that the language used had been unparliamentary.

When he had quieted the disputants, Senator Ball, republican, Delaware, temporarily presiding, thumbed through a senate rule book while a half dozen other members tried all at once to get in a word of advice. Senator Reed then withdrew his objection, whereupon Senator McCumber declared he had no

Intention of taking back what he had said, and insisted that the clerk read the passage of his speech which had been questioned. That brought a renewal of the Missouri senator's protest. Senator Ball ruled the language out of order, and Senator McCumber resumed with the remark that he hadn't in the least changed his mind about the truth of what he had said.

Reply to Lodge

Senator McCumber, a republican member of the foreign relations committee, was speaking in reply to Chairman Lodge of the committee who had just concluded a prepared address supporting the Shantung amendment.

In replying, Senator McCumber argued that the proposed amendment would be of no avail, because Shantung already was in Japan's possession, and altering the treaty would not change that possession. On the other hand, he said, the League of Nations would put "the civilized world with a grip upon Japan's throat" to compel her to make good her promises to restore the province to China.

Later Senator Reed made an extended argument against the league, asserting that if it had the power to force Japan to give back Shantung, it certainly would have the power to compel the United States to do whatever it desired. He argued that the league council and assembly would not be judicial bodies, because every member would be an interested party in any big world question.

Reed Gets Into Tilt

Senator Reed also engaged in a series of heated exchanges with Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the administration leader, who challenged a number of his statements about the practical operation of the league. The colloquy reached a climax, when the Missouri senator made a passing reference to the arms embargo bill, which he said Senator Hitchcock had introduced after the sinking of the Lusitania, "well knowing that if it passed, the Germans soon would be pounding at the gates of Paris."

The administration leader declared the bill had been introduced in December, 1914, at the first opportunity after the war started, and that the statement that it was after the Lusitania sinking was a sample of the "reckless statements" Senator Reed had been making "all over the country." Later Mr. Reed showed the measure had been reintroduced in December, 1915, and Senator Hitchcock said he never had apologized for the bill and never expected to, having presented it in the interest of peace and neutrality.

No progress was made during the day in the reading of the treaty text, nor was any agreement reached for a time to vote on the Shantung amendment. Today the senate will meet an hour earlier in the hope that several hours may be given over to the reading, though Senator Owen, democrat, Okla-

Has He Found a Cure for Asthma?

Simple Prescription Gives Instant Relief. Makes Breathing Easy.

In New England, where Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis and other diseases of the throat and lungs are so prevalent, remarkably successful results are being reported following the use of a new form of treatment known as Oxidaze, a physician's prescription. Oxidaze is a harmless but powerful combination of curative essential oils concentrated and compressed into a small tablet. One of these tablets slowly dissolved before going to bed seems to have the effect of relaxing the muscular construction of the bronchial tubes, opening up the air passages and regulating spasmodic lung action. This enables the patient to breathe easily and naturally while lying down and to get a comfortable night's sleep.

So much interest has been shown that local druggists, including Lowell Pharmacy, have secured a small supply and state that they are authorized to refund the money paid for the first package if in any case this new treatment fails to give relief. Oxidaze is pleasant to take, contains no harmful, habit-forming drugs and is not expensive. This makes their test an easy matter.—Adv.

$73,239 TO GOVERNMENT FROM WORLD SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Nearly as much money was paid to the United States in war taxes as accrued to the club owners of each of the teams that participated in the recent world's baseball series. It was estimated today. For the eight games $73,239 was paid to the government as war tax, while Chas. A. Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox and Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati Reds got approximately $95,000 each. But from that amount it is stated, it was necessary to deduct the expenses of erecting temporary seats, players' salaries, the cost of transporting the players from one city to the other and their hotel bills, leaving the clubs just about the same amount as went to the government.

THE PEACE TREATY

France is now celebrating the ratification of the peace treaty and the official end of the war with Germany. Germany ratified the treaty some two months ago and official notice of her action in this respect was duly recorded at the French foreign office. Similar evidence of ratification by Great Britain and Italy may be filed today or at least is promised some time this week.

Thus, so far as the treaty of peace is concerned with these three powers, peace will be officially declared and the League of Nations will automatically come into existence. Moreover, all the restrictions upon personal freedom which are necessary in time of war will be abrogated and the people of all three nations, can then devote their entire time to the problems of reconstruction, rejoicing that the war with all its horrors is over and that the blessings of peace are again restored.

Unfortunately the senate of the United States has wrestled with the treaty for several months and yet no decision is in sight. There is little doubt as to what the verdict of the nation would be if the question of ratifying the treaty were to be submitted to the people as a whole, but there can be no such submission. The senate must pass upon the treaty one way or another; and public opinion favors prompt ratification in order that peace may be officially declared and that congress may give its entire attention to the pressing problems of reconstruction. If the senate must have reservations and interpretations let them be formulated and adopted, but let there be final action for the ratification of the treaty in order that peace with Germany may be declared without further delay.

Further discussion will serve no useful purpose. If the senate should insist upon radical changes which would destroy the value of the covenant as an international compact for the prevention of war, President Wilson would probably reject it altogether and then this nation would have to make a separate peace with Germany and return to the state of isolation from which she emerged to enter the world war.

It is difficult to see why there should be such a terrible dread of entering the League of Nations in view of the fact that due provision is made for withdrawal by any nation that after entering does not wish to remain. What the people want now is a return to peace conditions, a peace that will be permanent and lasting, one that will tend to maintain peace throughout the world as well as in the United States, for the reason that in the present state of close international relations no great nation can be indifferent to any serious military operations between any other two nations. The commerce and even business of the United States would suffer from a war even of secondary proportions in Europe or Asia. It is, therefore, in the interest of all nations to promote universal peace by adopting the League of Nations and giving it a fair trial. If it does not meet the expectations of those who have advocated it most strongly, it can easily be amended and if in any case it should prove detrimental to the interest of the United States to be a member of such an international peace pact, then the door is always open for withdrawal. Why kick up such a fuss over the ratification of the treaty just as if it were something unchangeable and liable to bring irrevocable disaster?

If by any mischance this nation should fail to enter the League of Nations, then to be perfectly safe we should have to maintain military and naval armaments ready to defend our shores against any two of the other great nations and to keep continually prepared for war. Between such alternatives we can see but one sensible choice.

OUR CRIPPLED SOLDIERS

Congressman Rogers has introduced a resolution asking that an investigation be made into the work of the commission on vocational training of wounded soldiers. Mr. Rogers has had a number of complaints from which he has concluded that either something is wrong or else the commission is very unjustly abused.

The commission has undertaken

a prodigious task in planning to rehabilitate 170,000 wounded men. That the results thus far are disappointing is not strange considering first the fact that wounded men are in a great proportion of cases not in a sound physical condition and that if they are, it takes considerable time to make them experts at any business with which they are wholly unacquainted. To make men who have lost legs and arms, who are blind and decrepit, fit for expert service is a very slow process; and the fact that the commission cannot turn out these war heroes as finished workmen after a few months' training, may not occasion surprise to anybody.

It is said that there are 170,000 of these soldiers and thus far only 3000 of them have been started in vocational courses. It is charged that as $10,000,000 was appropriated for the purpose, better results should be forthcoming. The authors of that charge may discover that no amount of money will avail to transform such men into experts in a few months.

The work was started over a year ago but months were spent in planning what would be done. Everybody wants to see all that is possible done for the disabled men and the outcome of the investigation will be watched with interest.

In face of the demand for an inquiry, Congressman Fess has introduced a bill providing that not only soldiers but all crippled industrial civilians shall have the benefit of industrial vocational training. This is another example of the tendency to have the federal government usurp state rights. It was not surprising that this proposition was met by a strong protest by Congressmen Walsh and Treadway of Massachusetts on the ground that it is state business.

That Congressman Fess, a republican leader, should propose such a thing indicates a strange view of the extent to which federal authority should extend over the states in time of peace. The case of the wounded war veterans is entirely different. They were in the service of the federal government and the proposition to train them for business pursuits is something entirely new. The practicability of the scheme has never been fully tested and whether the government is on the right path, and just what its plans and achievements in this line are, will undoubtedly be brought out in the investigation. One thing certain is that the commission has attended to the clerical end of the business in fine shape, as scarcely a day passes without bringing to this office, and we presume every other newspaper office in the land, finely written articles upon the way in which crippled soldiers are to be trained for efficient service in a great number of selected trades and professions. It cannot reasonably be assumed that crippled soldiers can learn a trade or profession in one-half or one-third of the time required by a person who has the full use of all his limbs and powers of mind and body.

THE SUGAR SUPPLY

The sugar shortage may mark the beginning of uncontrolled price raising in that commodity.

Or it may serve as a timely warning and as an object lesson in the need of further federal supervision in an essential industry. "Unprecedented domestic demand," is reported by the American Sugar Refining Co., and one reason for this demand is undoubtedly the relaxation of federal authority in the distribution of this food necessity.

The agreement between the Sugar Equalization Board and Herbert Hoover expires Dec. 31, 1919. Legislation to extend the system of regulation which solved our wartime sugar problem is before congress. Profiteers are about the only ones who could desire the defeat of the bill to insure American households a steady and reasonably cheap supply of sugar.

Members of the Sugar Refiners' National committee say that resumption of zone control would relieve the present situation in a week. The charge that the domestic shortage is caused by excessive exports is met with the statement that actually about 100,000 tons have been exported, which is said to be about ten days' supply for the United States.

Other sugar shipments out of the United States were from purchases made by the British royal commission from the United States Sugar Equalization Board of a part of the last Cuban crop. This was refined in the United States for the allied governments.

For a year the wholesale price of sugar has remained practically stationary. Americans pay less for their sugar than any other people in the world. The Hoover plan has made this possible. It has benefited every household budget in the country.—N. E. A.

PLEA FOR KINDERGARTENS

Commissioner Claxton of the National Education bureau sends out an appeal to the educators of the country urging greater attention to kindergarten work. Drawing lessons from the changes brought about by the war, he states that the institutions of government, including our own, will be severely tried and tested and that to meet future contingencies it is important to provide protection against reaction toward autocracy on the one side and class rule, disintegration and anarchy on the other. In building up an educational system to protect and promote American democracy as the hope of the world he holds that the kindergarten should have a very important place. The spirit of the school originated by Froebel, he asserts, has a tendency toward freedom, initiative, self-restraint, co-operation and obedience to law.

The kindergarten, he says, did not receive governmental support in Germany because of its spirit of democracy and that the founder of the system looked to America for the attainment of his ideals in education.

It is rather remarkable that Commissioner Claxton should lay so much stress upon the education of very young children and so little upon the training of children in after years. He is probably right, however, in believing that the adult is largely governed by the principles instilled into his mind in the early years of his school life.

There seems to be a discrepancy between this appeal on the part of the commissioner and one recently issued by Herbert Hoover in behalf of underpaid college professors. Mr. Hoover believes that there is an actual danger in the meagre salaries paid many college professors as he feels that they may abandon their positions and go out to preach Bolshevism. This does not harmonize with the claim that education alone can uphold our democratic institutions against the menace of socialism, Bolshevism and anarchy.

Unfortunately it is a fact that some college professors have been found as leaders among the socialistic element and even among those who favor the soviet form of government. Perhaps it was a few instances of this kind that led Mr. Hoover to make such a statement, but it would be unjust to judge the entire class by the action of a few who have followed an erratic course. The colleges and universities have taken care to silence or discharge the professors who have shown ultra-radical tendencies.

RATE OF WAGES

The National Industrial Conference board has given out a statement of the results of an investigation of the increase in wages from September, 1914, to March, 1919. It shows that the weekly earnings of men have increased from 62 to 110 per cent. It appears that the increases shown are in a number of cases greater than the percentage increase in the cost of living which was placed by a previous report of the board at 61.3 per cent for the same period. The comparison made shows that the largest percentage of increase in weekly earnings up to September, 1918, was recorded in chemical, metal, rubber, cotton and wool manufacturing industries. In the three latter groups, however, there was a sharp falling off during the period from September, 1918, to March, 1919, which, however, was due to a reduction in the number of hours constituting a day's work, and also in part to the disorganization attending a return to the peace time basis.

When a child has croup

Thousands of mothers say Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is the best remedy for croup they know. It cuts the thick choking mucus, clears away the inflamed, inflamed passages and eases hoarseness. The gasping, strangled fight for breath gives way to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. T. J. McCall, Athens, O., writes: "We have used Foley's Honey and Tar in our home for years and find it invaluable for coughs and colds—especially for croup in our children. We are never without it and cannot too highly recommend it."

MAN ABOUT TOWN

If ever you reach that stage where you feel that a complete rest is essential to your well-being, take a little trip from one who knows, pack up a few "roughing it" clothes and make for the celebrated Berkshire hills. Western Massachusetts boasts many wonderful achievements and accomplishments, but had she nothing else to offer but her rambling, towering, colorful hills to expectant visitors, she would have done all that would be necessary to win the admiration of thousands. The Berkshires are unique among hills and a week spent in them makes the observer an admirer immediately. The trip under discussion at present was centered in Ashfield, a town of a few thousand people snuggled up in the northeastern corner of Franklin county, ten miles away from railroad and presenting a main street that more resembled a fabled arch of leaves in some celebrated European forest lands than the principal thoroughfare of an up and doing American community. In early October its beauty challenges description. Not only do the colorful leaves from trees on either side of the street meet overhead forming an arch, but the ground itself is carpeted with brown, yellow and gold.

Ashfield is high up in the "mountains" as the natives are wont to call their beloved hills and at no time is it super-heated. Last week the evenings were particularly cool and the extra blanket at the foot of the bed was quickly utilized for its designed purpose. The town has no industry beyond the inevitable farming and fruit cultivation. Apple orchards are everywhere and at all times of the year do they form a beautiful feature in the general color scheme. The driver who brings you over the road from the railroad station points with pride to a hollow in the hills known as "Apple valley," where thousands of barrels of apples are raised annually. In the changing colors at this time of the year, the trees are admirable, but they are nothing as compared with the springtime when the white blossoms burst forth and light up the hollow of the hills in celestial white. And this is only one of hundreds of interesting features that the inhabitants never tire talking about. The town hall is an ancient affair, bearing over its doorway the tell-tale date of 1812, yet once inside one would never suspect that his surroundings were more than a century old. Ashfield is by no means a dead town. There is practically no means of artificial illumination except electricity and away out on the outskirts of the town where the farmhouses are few and far between, what seemed the height of suburban modernity was reached when the housekeeper explained that water was pumped from the ground into her kitchen sink by means of electricity. When you wanted a drink of water, you turned a switch, a motor began buzzing and soon water was forthcoming. A string of electric lights illuminated the principal thoroughfares of the town in the evening.

It is her summer hotel that has brought the town most fame. It is a lengthy wooden building, several stories high and modern in every aspect. New York and Springfield people are very familiar with it as many of them live there the entire summer. Late tourists from the eastern part of the state have become acquainted with it as the result of brief stop-overs on auto trips. And just as present the chief topic of discussion and speculation in Ashfield is the transfer of the hostelry from the hands of a man who had conducted it for years to a newcomer. The transfer is a real event in the town's history and barring the annual speculation early in September will be in the several grade schools and one academy that the town boasts. It easily outranks all other topics of conversation. The visitor is given a full history of the hotel, the faults and excellencies of the proprietor are pointed out candidly and speculation as to the new owner is rife. For people must talk.

But as aforesaid, Ashfield was merely the headquarters of the present trip. With the Mohawk trail, celebrated in history and automobile advertisements, beckoning on the one side and the inviting city of Springfield calling from the other, it was hard to resist the alignment of a hired machine, a talkative driver and pleasant companions. Springfield, 15 miles to the south, was first undertaken. The start from Ashfield was made early in the morning and mile after mile was spun off through hills, hills and then more hills. Now the engine was pounding for all she was worth to get you up over an incline and then you were coasting downhill without an effort. The scenery was ever changing and nearly laid out towns passed by incessantly. Smith college with its bery of pretty students enjoying their Saturday respite was an attractive feature. Northampton was of interest because it is the home of the present governor and Holyoke charmed with the beauty of its residences. Finally Springfield itself with its white-uniformed street sweepers, trim looking policemen and stately looking office buildings gave the impression of a Boston whose streets had been straightened and thoroughly scoured.

As for the Mohawk trail, language is but a poor substitute for eyesight. All that has been said about the nature beauty of Ashfield, if multiplied tenfold, will apply to the trail. For a good part of the way it winds along the Deerfield river and reminds one a bit of his own Merrimack river boulevard. But there are the incessant climbing, tortuous curves that seem to plunge you right into the heart of the towering hills. On one side you are flanked by a mass of color rising in almost perpendicular walls that seem to end abruptly. On the other is a continuous panorama of distant hills, little communities nestled in the foothills near at hand and the omnipresent brook or river. Finally you come to Whitcomb's summit where Indian souvenirs are for sale and later to the still loftier altitude of the hairpin turn, another reminder of Lowell and her celebrated turn on the boulevard. Here an observation tower enables you to look off into North Adams, the terminus of the trail and the city is but a speck in the miles of country open to your vision. Over to the left you can see a lofty mountain top and when you look again, its crest is enveloped in a cloud. And yet it seems but on a level with your own position. Finally comes the trip home with its even realization that men and women in cities are leading but confined lives at the best. A bit of depression overtakes you, but masterfully you overcome it in the realization that a warm kitchen fire, plenty of pleasant chatter and a warm supper awaits your return to Ashfield. And these are the Berkshires, monuments such as man may never hope to erect in honor of the world's greatest heroes.

The recent case which came up in the local police court, in which a man was ordered to pay a fine of $25 by Judge Enright for hitting a dog with his auto and then driving away without stopping to ascertain how badly the animal was injured or leaving his name and address indicates that the police are up in arms against heedless and drunken motorists who seem to

for Pale and Weak Women.

MRS. ALBERT LAVOIE

I was constantly troubled with rheumatism, headaches, sore back, sore legs, etc. My appetite was fickle and irregular and I was fast becoming discouraged with my lot. My nervousness was getting the best of me, and with my numerous family of fourteen children, for whom I was giving myself up, soul and body, things were looking rather gloomy and one pain was rapidly succeeding another, and I was getting weaker every day. I started to take RED PILLS for pale and weak women, and continued using them for quite a long time, with such success that I gradually became stronger and the numerous pains which had been the cause of so much suffering disappeared one by one.

I think local folks would be wise, however, to heed the warning recently issued by Agent Richardson of the Humane society regarding keeping their pets near home on Sundays and holidays. It may be some satisfaction to know that the man who killed one's dog has paid a stiff penalty, but it won't bring the dog back again. Moreover, some dogs act as if they were trying to get run over.

David Goldhaber lives in Ludlow street, (N. Y.) jail because he didn't pay alimony to Mrs. Goldhaber as the judge had ordered him to do. Dave has been in jail six months. The sheriff sent word the other day to his wife, telling her that Dave was sick and had no money suggesting that she let him out so he could earn some.

"Nothing doing for my husband's release," she answered. "He only wants to get out so he can run away. I hope he stays there for life."

HUN SHIPS TOOK 500,000 AMERICANS OVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The German interned ships put into service of this country during the war carried a total of 931,512 troops to and from France. They took more than 600,000 troops from American ports, or one-fourth the total delivered when the armistice was signed, and brought back more than 400,000. The Leviathan alone carried a total of 170,000 men.

This was the testimony yesterday of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director general of transportation, before the house military affairs committee.

The transport fleet numbered six vessels at the time of the armistice, he said. They were in line shape to carry additional forces and supplies to the total of 2,056,000 men sent abroad. Within the borders of the United States, to and from camps, 13,519,591 men were transported on the railroads. Forty million tons of freight were carried on the railroads in this country during the war. Five million tons of cargo were sent to the American Expeditionary Forces.

Gen. Hines said the service of mobilizing supplies reached the point where this government was able to ship 200 locomotives a month to France. They were 13 days enroute from factory to railroad track in France.

ROYAL PARTY ENTERS YOSEMITE VALLEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—King Albert of Belgium with Queen Elizabeth, the heir apparent, Ambassador Brand Whitlock and others making up the royal party touring the United States, were on their way today to the Yosemite valley, where they expected to arrive in time for luncheon.

The king proved yesterday that the late Theodore Roosevelt had very little edge on him when it came to leading a strenuous life, for in addition to receptions, luncheons, dinners and other official welcomes, he talked with the Belgian consul general at New York on the long distance telephone; visited a vaudeville show and enjoyed moving pictures of himself taken a few hours before; took a swim in the Olympic club tank and otherwise kept busy up to his departure at midnight for the Yosemite.

DR. KUNO MEYER DEAD

German Professor Widely Known Here Was First to Predict World War

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—Announcement is made in Berlin of the death in Leipzig of Dr. Kuno Meyer, professor of Celtic language and literature at the University of Berlin.

Dr. Kuno Meyer was a lecturer widely known in the United States. He was born in Hamburg Dec. 20, 1858. Dr. Meyer was virtually the first prominent person to predict that the war between Germany and England, France and Russia would develop into a world conflict. In 1917 he wrote an article entitled: "Our war aims in enemy eyes," which quoted a conversation with Col. Theodore Roosevelt and attracted wide attention. Later he wrote an article for the Berlin press, saying Germany had lost the friendship of the United States after the sinking of the Lusitania. Dr. Meyer was in this country at the time of the catastrophe.

cons of honor at the mass of consecration which elevated the priest to his new dignity.

On Wednesday evening, May 28, 1902, Lowell council, No. 72, of the Knights of Columbus of which the distinguished prelate had formerly been a most zealous member, gave a banquet and reception to their honored brother which will be readily recalled by the older members of the council. The committee in charge was headed by Rev. W. George Mullin, formerly assistant pastor at St. Peter's church in this city, but now pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Bishop Garrigan is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ann Farley, of this city, and Mrs. Bridget Grant, of Dorchester; three nephews, Rev. Philip J. Lee, of St. Mary's church, Turner's Falls; Rev. William Grant of St. Peter and Paul's church, South Boston, and Philip Garrigan of this city, and three nieces of this city, Miss Alice T. Lee, Miss Mariette Lee and Miss Elizabeth Garrigan. He is also survived by a number of nephews and nieces out of town.

Miss Lee arrived at Sioux City this morning but early last evening her family received word by wire from the bishop's secretary that death had come peacefully to the venerable prelate yesterday noon. For the past few years the bishop had been in failing health and a year ago an auxiliary bishop was appointed to assist him in his duties. Bishop Garrigan, however, was able to direct the affairs of his diocese almost up to the time of his death.

He went to Sioux City 17 years ago and was the first bishop of that diocese. In this period he built up the diocese into one of the largest and most thriving of the western part of the country. Trinity college for boys, one of the largest educational institutions in the west, was brought into being during Bishop Garrigan's term of service and a large orphanage is another memorial to his well-spent life. In addition the bishop was one of the leaders in the founding of the famous Trinity college for girls at Washington, D. C., and had the honor of laying the corner stone of that institution. Deep interest in all matters pertaining to education was one of the notable features of his career.

Bishop Garrigan was born in County Cavan, Ireland, in 1839. He came to Boston in 1844 but a few months later the family moved to Lowell. He attended the Old Moody grammar school here and spent two years in the Lowell high school. In September, 1862, he entered St. Charles college, Maryland, with the intention of becoming a priest.

In 1866 he went to Troy seminary where he was ordained in June, 1870. Immediately he was appointed to St. John's church, Worcester. He met with marked success in his duties at St. John's but his reputation at the seminary was so marked that he was recalled there in 1873 and made director. Two years later he was offered the pastorate of St. Bernard's church, Fitchburg, and assumed his duties there in October, 1875.

But the educational field called once more for the able services of the Fitchburg pastor. Accordingly, when the Catholic university at Washington was opened and the eloquent Bishop Keane of Richmond placed at the head, the question of who should be second in command came up and was answered by Father Elliot, a famous Jesuit father, who is quoted as saying that Father Philip Garrigan would be the ideal man for the place.

Rev. Fr. Garrigan was at once offered the vice-directorship of the university. This was in the mid-summer of 1888. In the fall, after due deliberation, he tendered his acceptance and with the bishop's permission, left for his new field. This office was held until 1902 when, in recognition of his services to the church, he was consecrated bishop of Sioux City on Sunday, May 25. He was given the right, however, of resuming his old place as rector of St. Bernard's any time within the year. He did not return to his pastoral duties.

Bishop Garrigan's consecration will be recalled by a number of Lowell people who were present at the ceremony. It was held in the presence of priests and prelates comprising the dignitaries and princes of the church from all sections of the United States. Added impressiveness was given the ceremony by the receipt of a telegram from His Holiness, the late Pope Leo XIII, congratulating the new bishop and giving him and his people the papal blessing.

Bishop Garrigan's parents were Philip and Alice Garrigan of this city who have long since passed away.

The bishop was an intimate friend of Rt. Rev. Monsignor O'Brien, pastor of St. Patrick's church, this city, and was also acquainted with a number of the other older prelates of Lowell. His last visit here was five years ago.

Miss Alice T. Lee had been on to see her distinguished uncle only a few weeks ago and at that time he was able to come to the station to see her off. Another intimate friend of the bishop was Bishop Daniel Feehan of the diocese of Fall River. He had visited Bishop Garrigan in Sioux City only a few weeks ago and had been accustomed to visit him twice yearly.

ITALY'S NEW PROPOSAL

Foreign Minister Tittoni Would Annex Volosca in Lieu of Fiume

ROME, Monday, Oct. 15.—Foreign Minister Tittoni, who left Rome yesterday for a conference with King Victor Emmanuel at the royal shooting lodge at San Rossore, en route to the peace conference, expressed confidence before his departure that his new proposal for the settlement of the Fiume and Dalmatian problem would be received with favor, he declares. It practically accepts the proposal of President Wilson in regard to Fiume.

He asks only the annexation of the district of Volosca lying between Fiume and Trieste to Italy in order to establish a joint boundary between the enlarged kingdom of Italy and the proposed buffer state, Fiume.

"This insignificant annexation of a little strip of land and a few thousand inhabitants," as it is characterized here, would give, he argues, the triple advantage of preventing Fiume from being entirely surrounded by Jugo-Slavia, avoiding contact between Italy and Jugo-Slavia and of affording a certain moral satisfaction to the Italians, thereby facilitating the task of the cabinet of inducing them to accept the compromise.

As another feature of his proposal, Minister Tittoni asked that the island of Lagosta be added to the other Dalmatian islands assigned to Italy under the original division of these islands between Italy and Jugo-Slavia.

The project, besides making Zara, capital of Dalmatia, a free city, provides that it be represented diplomatically by Italy.

Sig. Tittoni realizes that the project will not satisfy the Italians, who feel that Fiume, through the principal of self-determination and its Italian preponderance, has the unquestionable right to be annexed to Italy. Despite this opposition, however, Sig. Tittoni thinks that the Nitti cabinet is strong enough to have the plan adopted by a large majority of the parliament. The country, it is pointed out, is anxious to see the Adriatic problem solved and to take up the problem of reorganization and reconstruction vital to the revival of prosperity.

The foreign minister hopes that these concessions will be met by the United States in a spirit of conciliation. In the realization of "the enormous responsibility resting on Washington if refusal should cause complications

This is a common expression among women, yet they toil on day after day heedless of the significance of this distressing symptom.

If it is caused by female derangement Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is what you need. It quickly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women.

For more than thirty years this good old fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring American women to health.

I have recommended your Vegetable Compound and Blood Medicine and three of my friends are taking it to their advantage. Mrs. Hunt tells how it helped her Detroit, Mich.—"I was in a general run-down condition, was very nervous and tired, had backache and other troubles. I suffered for several years, was not able to work at times and tried doctor's medicine with no results. I saw Lydia E. To Reach Paris Today

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Tommaso Tittoni, the Italian foreign minister, will reach Paris during this afternoon. He left Rome on Monday for a conference with King Victor Emmanuel at the royal shooting lodge at San Rossore on the way here.

It is understood that Foreign Minister Tittoni is bringing to the peace conference a new proposal by Italy for the settlement of the Adriatic dispute. The project as it has been outlined creates a buffer state of Fiume and proposes that Italy shall annex the district of Volosca, lying between Fiume and Trieste, in order to establish a joint boundary between Italy and the state of Fiume.

ROME, Oct. 15.—(Havas)—Foreign Minister Tittoni will represent Italy in the League of Nations, according to an official announcement.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare. In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form. In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar. This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate, has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

LOWELL WINS OPENER JIMMY DUFFY HAS A FINE

Defeated Worcester in Fast Polo Game, 6 to 4—Good Crowd

The 1919-1920 roller polo season opened last night when Lowell won from the Worcester team in a well played game by the score of 6 to 4.

Worcester presented its regular line-up, but Lowell was without the services of Bob Griffith, the star center, who has been delayed in reporting.

Davies, a new man, played rush for Lowell and made a fine impression in his initial game. He teamed up, well with Harkins, showed much "pep" and considerable ability as a skater and driver. He took the passes from Harkins cleverly and his blocking was impressive.

With the famous "Jigger" Higgins at the helm and the industrious and speedy Taylor co-operating with him in the rush line and the other veterans in the Worcester lineup, Lowell's chances looked slim at the outset. But the visitors seemed to be unable to score in the first half. Lowell got away to a flying start and maintained the advantage throughout.

The game was enlivened by a clash between Carroll and Taylor, and while they were swapping hits in lively fashion, Referee Ben Keaveny "broke" the pair, before any damage had been done. Eleven goals were scored, but Worcester lost one by making three fouls.

There was a good sized crowd on hand to greet the players and when the favorites hopped into the cage they received a cordial greeting. The first period was well contested and the teams battled away for over six minutes before a score was registered.

Asquith had the honor of scoring the first goal. Taylor then evened the count, but the period ended with Davies hooked one in to the accompaniment of vigorous cheering. The period ended with the count 2 to 1.

In the second period Harkins came through with two beauties and Donnelly and Higgins followed for the visitors. The play was very fast at this point with all hands working strenuously.

Finally Harkins got the ball and after a great dash down the hall, slipped the pill over to Davies and the youngster hooked it by Mallory's pad, making the score 5 to 2.

Shortly after the beginning of the final period Davies got another score, and as Worcester's third foul came at this point, the score stood six to two. The game apparently on ice.

Harkins ordered defensive work, and while Worcester added two to its score the rally came too late and when the session ended, the players left the cage amid great cheers. The lineup:

Lowell: Harkins, Jr. Worcester: Taylor, Jr. Taylor, Jr. Higgins, Jr. Asquith, Jr. Donnelly, Jr. Carroll, Jr. Keaveny, Jr. Mallory, Jr. Pence, Jr. Sullivan, Jr.

POLO NOTES
A good start.
Capt. Harkins received an ovation when he hopped into the cage.

Davies, Lowell's new rush, made a fine impression in the center. He's a giro-c-fast and aggressive performer, and under the efficient leadership of Harkins ought to develop into a star.

Pence and Asquith, members of last year's championship team, were given an enthusiastic greeting.

Ben Keaveny, referee, announcer, singer, writer, etc. officiated and he did a good job. The fans had a little fun with Ben, but he as well as the spectators enjoyed the fun.

Salem with Frank Hardy and Kid Williams in the lineup will be here Friday.

Taylor and Carroll had a little mix-up that added excitement to the game. No casualties.

NEW BEDFORD WINS
NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 15.—The roller polo season opened here last night with a large turnout. New Bedford won easily, 4 to 2. "Eol" Hart made his goal easily and received the recognition of the crowd. Kehoe, a newcomer, also made a good impression.

BOXING
Barney Adair vs. Jimmy Duffy and Three Other Bouts
CRESCENT RINK, THURSDAY

RECORD IN RING

Jimmy Duffy, the aggressive little New York lightweight, who meets Barney Adair at the Crescent club here tomorrow night is one of the busiest fighters that ever steps into the ring, and his record proves he is one of the toughest boys boxing.

He has met Irish Patsy Cline ten times, Benny Leonard, Lew Tindler, Joe Welling, Johnny Dundee (four times), Eddie Wallace, Phil Bloom, Young Britt, Pete Hartley and all the tough ones in his class, and boasts that he has never been off his feet in a contest.

His one ambition is to get a crack at the champion, Benny Leonard, again, and over whom he claims a newspaper decision gained just before Leonard won the championship.

Another boy he claims is passing him up is Johnny Dundee who has turned down two offers to meet him at Atlantic City, N. J., and the Newark Sporting club of that city.

Adair is in fine condition for the mill and his manager feels confident that he will win.

There is considerable interest in the semi-final number for tomorrow night, when Buddy Dolan, formerly of Lawrence, now of Lowell, and Billy McCann, who recently came here from Cleveland, Ohio will meet. Dolan is noted for his aggressiveness and will fight to battle all the way and McCann is said to be of the same type. There will be two good preliminaries. The assessments are one and one and a half and two.

VALGAR KNOCKS OUT HILL IN 6TH

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Benny Valgar of New York knocked out Jimmy Hill, the Australian champion, in six rounds before 4000 fans last night at Mechanics building.

When Hill boxed Adair here last week he made such a good showing that a great many of the Boston fans figured him worthy of the title of champion. Last night he was against a cleverer boxer, who made him show that he was not as skilful as he first appeared to be.

Valgar came near putting him away in the school round, but Hill's gameness kept him going.

HARD WEEK FOR TEXTILE ELEVEN

The Lowell Textile school eleven is being put through a severe course of spruiks this week in preparation for the game scheduled with New Bedford Textile on the local campus next Saturday afternoon. Coach Hudson spent much time yesterday correcting faults which showed up in the work of the line-men in the Dean Academy game.

Fontaine, a new man, has reported as a backfield candidate and in his first workout showed considerable ability as a drop and placement kicker and will probably get a chance to show against New Bedford. Marble will have the quarterback position to himself for two or three weeks, as Snyder, the other quarter, strained ligaments in his left leg yesterday and will be out of the game for some time.

FREDDIE WELSH ACCUSED OF BITING HALF OF FORMER MANAGER'S EAR OFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Freddie Welsh, once world's champion lightweight boxer and now a captain in the army, was arraigned in a court yesterday charged with biting half his former manager's right ear off "during an altercation." The manager, Harry Pollock, was confined to a hospital ward, his counsel announced.

Welsh told the court he did not bite his former manager's ear, but that he sharply knocked him down and broke a bottle on the floor of the scene of the "altercation" was responsible for Pollock's ear gashes.

"Your honor, do I look as if I would bite a man's ear?" Welsh asked the magistrate.

"You certainly do not," the court replied, and then ordered Welsh held in $1000 for trial next Tuesday.

K. OF C. NINE ENJOYED GOOD SEASON

The Knights of Columbus baseball team went through the season just ended with a record of 17 games played, 14 of which were victories, and only three defeats. Ninety-four runs were scored to 45 by opponents and the club holds batting and fielding averages much higher than contesting nines.

Of the 11 wins, Owen Devlin is credited with six; Scully with six and Ed Cawley with two. Scully was beaten once by Pere Marquette council of Boston and Devlin dropped two games to the Lamsons during the five-game series, both by 2 to 1 scores.

On their best days the team looked particularly good. The infield was iron clad game after game, while the outfield with Henry Sullivan in center was fast and sure. Devlin pitched brilliantly as a rule and Scully kicked in with some nice games. His work against the Lamsons when he held them scoreless for six innings and won out, 8 to 6, was his best performance of the season.

The team's record of games played, won and lost, follows:

The Call-em

The Lowell high school football eleven although dropping both contests played to date is not having the unsuccessful season one might be led to believe. It is a practically green team which represents the school this year, one almost barren of veterans and cannot be expected to step out and knock 'em dead in early season games. It shows possibilities, however, and the coaches may be relied upon to have it in good shape for the bigger contests which are to come. Neighbor Lawrence is not going along any too smoothly either and took a man-sized beating from Boston high school of commerce on Columbus day, the score at the close reading 31 to 0. On the other hand, Haverhill high won its holiday game, defeating Lynn Classical, 13 to 0.

Chance to Rival the B. A. A.
Now that it seems generally agreed that the 1919 baseball curtain has been rung down for keeps, sporting minds switch to football and basketball in Lowell. With its resident membership of 1215, Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, should take a whole-hearted interest and active participation in year-around sports. The council had a good baseball club on the field this summer. It was the class of local nines and showed its worth against some of the strongest teams in and around Boston. Now comes football and basketball. The same membership which produced such a creditable baseball team in September is fully adequate to turn out a cracking good club in either of the two sports just mentioned. Ed Cawley might be the leader of the football eleven, with Jimmy Reane, Paul Cahill, Moran and Devlin to gather round him as a nucleus. The same goes for basketball. The entire C.Y.M.L. quintet belongs to the council and what better foundation could be wanted? Unless the council steps boldly forward in the sporting world it will be overlooking a good bet.

The Bear Came Over the Mt.
Harvard really begins to speed up its gridiron training this week when preparation commences for the Brown game in the stadium next Saturday. The Brown Bear always comes to the historic field with a growl and a kick and although it looks like an off year in Providence this fall the visitors may be depended upon to provide the stiffest opposition to the Crimson thus far. Brown, blue and orange show up brightly on Harvard's schedule, but how about a flash of green?

Leonard's Shadow
Kloby's licking at the hands of Dundee on the holiday should forever cause his most ardent supporters to forget the careless boasts which have been made regarding their idol's chances of flattening 'em all, including Leonard. They have seen their pet dazzled by Johnny's speed and peppered by his jabbing hands and if they can accurately visualize let them multiply all of Dundee's graces by three and they will be able to get a busy idea of how Kloby would look and act against Benny.

Kloby Lands K. O.
Speaking of Kloby and Lawrence and things, where was our old side-kick Billous Bell on Monday? There were rumors that he had broken with Kloby and other rumors to the effect that if they had been broken sooner, Bell would have fared better. Well, at least Dundee left his bag at home.

CASE AGAINST CARMEN TO END SATURDAY

After hearings covering six days, the trial of the three Lowell street car conductors, J. J. Kelley, Camille Chioine and John P. Wallace, accused of stealing fares from the local division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., will be concluded Saturday morning. The cases of both the prosecuting attorney, Ered N. Wier, and Edward J. Tierney, counsel for the defense, were completed yesterday, leaving only the arguments to be presented by the two attorneys to bring the trial to a close.

The case was opened before Judge Fairlight in Lowell police court a month ago.

The case was then continued until Oct. 6 when the prosecution presented further "spotter" evidence in connection with the alleged fare stealing. The prosecution closed its case on Oct. 9 and at yesterday's hearing, which consumed the greater part of the day, the three defendants testified in their own defense.

All admitted that they had withheld fares on various occasions in September, but said they had done so to make up discrepancies caused by the in-curacies of the Rooker register or portable fare boxes, and had in no instances kept any money rightfully belonging to the company and converted it to their own use. On some occasions they had made up money from their own pockets caused by the "over charging" of the registers or fare boxes, they declared.

At yesterday afternoon's session, which concluded the testimony for the defense, John J. Kelley took the stand and in response to questions by M. J. Tierney, his counsel, said that he lived at 227 Branch street and had been employed by the local company for nearly two years. Previous to his present employment he had been connected with the real estate business in Lowell, and had also worked as a private detective for New York jewelry firm. The Rooker register and also the portable fare boxes were very inaccurate at times, he said, particularly the Rooker "gun." It was a common thing for it to become clogged and skip several fares and on various occasions he had turned in the "gun" and received a new one. He had been forced to collect fares and ring them up on the hand register or punch a transfer for each fare collected on some occasions when the Rooker had balked, he declared.

He admitted withholding fares at times when the register was overcharging him in order to balance the discrepancies. He also said there were times when his claims against the company for inaccuracies caused by the register did not result in his employees canceling their indebtedness to him. He had endeavored to make passengers deposit their own fares whenever practicable.

The last defendant to be called, Camille Chioine, said he was 13 years old and had been employed by the local company for one year. He also gave considerable testimony as to the inaccuracies of the Rooker register, and said that on one occasion it had "jumped" fares to the amount of $1.40, which he had made up on the next trip. He denied, as did the other two men, withholding any money except when it was necessary to "balance" up the register or fare boxes as a result of overcharges. In one instance he found that his Rooker was inclined to jump backwards, and reported it to the man at the car barn.

Daniel S. O'Brien, a local real estate man, testified to the good character of Wallace, the defendant whose testimony was given at the morning session. Other local men testified to the honesty of the other two defendants. The cases were then continued until Saturday for argument.

LETTS AND ESTHONIANS TO PENALIZE STRIKES REGAIN INITIATIVE

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 14.—Rallied by their officers after the panic that seized them when armored cars broke through their lines west of Riga, Lettish forces, reinforced by Estonians, have regained the initiative and have moved across the Duna river, across which they fled late last week, according to advices received here from Wenden. Lettish forces never abandoned the portion of Riga east of the Duna, but clung to their positions in spite of a heavy bombardment from the Germano-Russian army that attacked the city.

Berlin reports that General von der Goltz, commander of the German forces in the Baltic has transferred his authority to General von Eberhardt and is expected to arrive in Berlin soon. It is announced in Berlin that measures have been taken to prevent more German soldiers from going to Courland, the center of the Germano-Russian movement and that all food supplies have been cut off from troops refusing to return to Germany.

All German shipping has been ordered off the Baltic and the entire Russian Baltic coast is virtually blockaded.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 14.—There is no indication of influenza this winter, according to speakers at the convention of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States in session here today.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Inclusion in the permanent railroad legislation of a provision to penalize strikes of railroad employees was decided upon late yesterday by the senate interstate commerce commission by a vote of 14 to 1. The committee did not enter into the details of the anti-strike legislation at its meeting yesterday, the vote being merely on the question of adopting the principle of penalizing railroad employees for striking. Senator Stanley, democrat, of Kentucky cast the only opposing vote, declaring he did not believe anti-strike provisions could be enforced. The committee vote was regarded as making certain inclusion in the final railroad bill of an anti-strike clause somewhat similar to the clause of the Cummins bills proposing fines and imprisonment for concerted action of employees interfering with interstate commerce. The phraseology of the anti-strike clause is expected to be agreed on late this week.

Other steps towards reporting out the railroad bill probably this week were taken yesterday by the committee in distribution of excess railroad earnings.

In accordance with a recent vote in favor of a provision directing the interstate commerce commission to fix rates sufficient to insure railroads a return of 5 1/2 per cent. upon the value of their property as determined by the committee, plus 1/2 of 1 per cent. for maintenance, the committee yesterday voted only on disposition of earnings exceeding this 6 per cent. return.

By a vote of 10 to 5, the committee decided that of earnings of railroads between 6 and 7 per cent., 1/2 of 1 per cent. may be retained by individual carriers towards maintenance of individual improvement funds, with the other 1/2 of 1 per cent. to be transferred by the railroads to the federal transportation board to compose a general national contingent fund. This general fund would be distributed by the board for the maintenance or improvement, through loans or otherwise of other railroads deemed worthy of assistance.

Of excess earnings of railroads over 7 per cent. on net value, the committee decided that one-fourth shall be retained by the earning carriers for their own improvement funds and three-fourths given to the board's general fund.

The committee also approved a provision that the individual carriers, from excess earnings over 6 per cent. may accumulate reserve funds up to a maximum of 5 per cent. of their property value. When this 5 per cent. limit is reached and maintained, one-third of further excess earnings may be retained by individual carriers and two-thirds must be transferred to the federal contingent fund.

WOMEN AS DOCTORS CONDEMN CORSETS BUT AS WOMEN THEY ALL WEAR THEM

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Do women need the corset or don't they? Men doctors are proverbially known to condemn corsets and the women doctors of the International Conference of Women Physicians now being held in New York are no exception to the rule.

When the subject of corsets came up, the verdict was "no corsets."

The woman physicians stood united against the corset in the conference. But, out in the lobby, as woman to woman, they talked in a different vein.

Dr. Constance Long, a noted medical psychologist of London, England, said: "I recognize that the modern corset has quite as much of a sub-conscious effect on women as conscious, which is to say, that the idea of having a slight brace, to hold up the figure or act as a reminder to the wearer to hold herself up, also had a moral and mental effect—an uplifting effect."

Dr. Anne Young of Canada, erst-while missionary to Ceylon, said: "I consider that, to wear or not to wear a corset, is purely a matter for

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

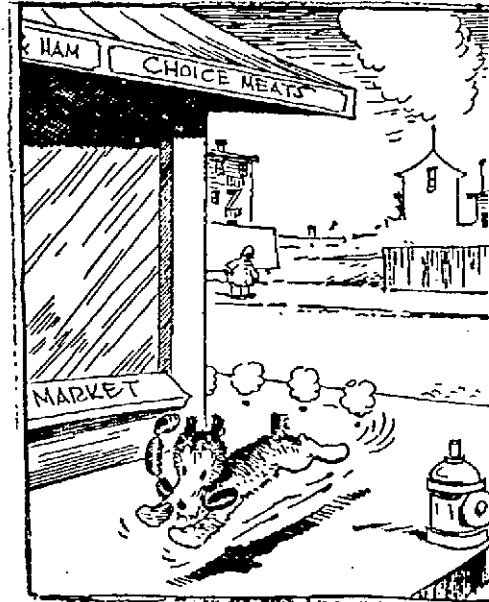

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

GERMANY TO JOIN IN
SOVIET BLOCKADE

BERLIN, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press) The Kreuz Zeitung learns from "well informed" quarters the government will in all probability agree to join in the blockade of soviet Russia proposed by the Entente powers. It is said the government will lay down certain conditions incident to its participation. Several despatches received from Koenigsberg report that commercial and industrial circles there are uneasy because of the fear that a blockade of the Baltic would prove disastrous to East Prussia. Only limited quantities of necessities such as foodstuffs, coal and petroleum can be taken overland at present.

The blockade, it is said, would also prove inimical to commercial relations with border states where, despatches declare, "England is aspiring to assume a dominating influence."

CARGO MOVEMENTS ARE
HELD UP BY STRIKE

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Cargo movements were suspended on several docks and delayed on others today by the strike of nearly 1500 longshoremen at this port. Most of the dockworkers left their places yesterday. The strike was not sanctioned by the union, according to union leaders. Efforts were continued to induce the men to return to work.

Crews employed in the unloading of raw sugar at the American Sugar Refining Co.'s pier were persuaded to continue after they had stopped for several hours. Charlestown and South Boston docks were manned by about one-half the usual number of workers. East Boston docks were deserted except for the active patrol of pickets.

Dissatisfaction with the recent award made in New York by the National Adjustment committee was said to be the cause of the trouble here.

Riga in Flames

Continued

Possession of the city will give General Denikin a secure hold on vast stretches of territory in old Russia, as the place is one of the most important railway centers south of the present Russian capital.

Part of Riga Burning

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—Part of Riga is burning owing to the bombardment of the city by Germano-Russian forces, according to a Central News despatch from Helsinki.

Savage Fighting in Riga

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 15.—Savage fighting continues in the city of Riga between Lettish and Lithuanian troops and the Germano-Russian army which entered the western part of the city last week. Reports reaching here state that shells have fired a portion of the town and that great damage has been done the quays and harbor. Many civilians have been killed during the battle.

British warships have become involved in the fighting, having been fired upon by the Germano-Russian forces, and an unconfirmed report de-

Huns Attack With Gas

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 15, (By A. P.)—"The Germans are attacking Riga with poison gas and bombarding the town with trench mortars," says a Lettish foreign office communication issued Monday.

Great damage has been done to quays and the harbor, the communication adds, "and there have been many civilian casualties."

Lettish Defend Riga

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Direct news from Latvia is being delayed on account of the disturbed state of the telegraph. Reports have been received in official circles, however, showing that the Lettish are defending their positions at Riga against the invaders splendidly while the Estonian government has already rushed every available armored car to their assistance.

Considerable bitterness is displayed by newspapers in Estonia in regard to the policy followed by the allies. These papers assert that the German forces in the Baltic had been defeated last July and that the campaign would have been carried to a victorious completion if the allies had not insisted upon an armistice.

The democratic Journal Tallinna Teataja reminds the allies that diplomatic notes cannot effect Germans, who can, however, be driven out by an effective blockade or by a military occupation of Frankfurt-on-the-Main. Otherwise, the paper declares, the Lettish and Estonians will be compelled to send their last man against the enemy that might have been defeated easily last July.

The labor organ Wabama declares that the menace to Latvia threatens the future peace of all Europe.

Boishevik in Detroit

STOCKHOLM, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—The Northwestern Russian army of General Udenitch is reported here to have pushed some 35 miles beyond Yamburg, which it captured recently and to be within 20 miles of Gatchina, which is only 30 miles southwest of Petrograd. The taking of 1500 prisoners and nine guns from the Boisheviks is announced. Confidence is expressed among the officers that Petrograd will fall before this attack.

In the course of the fighting the Red army is making use of mines to a great extent, blowing up the roads everywhere while retreating.

At Yamburg both officers and men taken prisoner are declared to have been pleased at being captured.

An armored train named "Lenine" and several armored automobiles, as well as 50 railway cars were among the material captured at Yamburg.

He also offered the association the use of the rooms at the War Camp Community Service club in Dutton street for a meeting place. In conclusion he announced that he had presented a gift of $100 to the treasury of the organization and that he would be ready to assist them at all times in their undertakings.

from a doctor, and I'll die before I do," so testified Joseph Marion at the civil session of the superior court yesterday, when the triple action of tort against Undertaker Joseph Albert was being tried. Mr. Marion said he is a carpenter by trade, but he hasn't done any work at his trade since the automobile accident, which occurred on the night of August 12, 1918, at Cheever and Pawtucket streets when the defendant's machine crashed into a telephone pole. The witness said when the crash occurred he was thrown forcibly against the side of the car and since that time he has felt pain in his stomach and abdomen.

Mrs. Marie Anna Marion, wife of the witness, gave her age as 53. She said her physical condition has not been the same since the accident. She informed the court that on the night of the accident Undertaker Albert called at her home with her son-in-law, Napoleon Rondeau, and asked her to get into the automobile with them and go to Salem street on business. She did not care about going, but Mr. Albert insisted, saying it would do her good to breathe a little fresh air. She finally consented to go. From Salem street the party went to Mr. Albert's undertaking rooms. From there the machine was driven through Cheever street as far as the corner of Pawtucket, where the crash occurred. She was injured about the head, chest and back and was treated at the Lowell Corporation ## hospital, she said. She also testified to being attended at her home for several weeks by her family physician.

Napoleon Rondeau, another plaintiff, testified along similar lines relative to the accident and said his injury consisted of a large wound in the jaw, which required six stitches to close.

Dr. B. J. Clark, superintendent of the Lowell Corporation hospital, testified to the condition of the plaintiffs when they arrived at the hospital on the night of the accident, while Dr. L. V. Rochette told of treating Mr. Marion at her home after the accident.

Zemon Rondeau testified to being present in the auto when the accident occurred and said in his opinion the machine was being operated at about 30 miles an hour at the time. He said he was only slightly injured.

Undertaker Albert, the defendant, was called by counsel for the plaintiffs and said at the time of the accident he was operating his car at between 5 and 10 miles an hour. He said about two minutes after the accident he drove the injured persons to the hospital in his automobile. He said the damage caused to the machine was a broken front axle, a bent mudguard and a broken windshield. The plaintiffs' case ended at this point and the defendant offered no defense.

Use Famo for the Hair—
As You Use Any Other
Medicine—Every Day

FAMO is a medicine for the hair, and should be used as a medicine at least every morning.

Americans have been, and are, notoriously negligent of both their teeth and their hair.

Result—the almost universal prevalence of the twin scourges—pyorrhea and scabs.

Scabs are the deadly germ that kills the hair, and only by keeping after it with FAMO can you save your hair and make it grow.

FAMO does unquestionably kill the scabs germ—clears the head of this pest, more often than not in a single application.

FAMO does grow new hair, even when people are careless and only apply it infrequently.

But it is not fair to yourself, your hair, or FAMO, to run chances. And you are running chances, if you use FAMO only once a week, or every now and then.

FAMO is sold at all toilet goods counters, in two sizes—$1 and 35 cents.

Scabs are the medical name for a morbidly increased flow from the sebaceous glands of the scalp. The scabs germ is a secretion form. In scales or flakes and is commonly known as dandruff.

12 ARRESTS IN BOMB PLOTS

Taken Into Custody During Night by Military Men at Gary, Indiana

Hunt Down Leaders of Radical Movement — Propaganda Printed in German

GARY, Ind., Oct. 15.—More than a dozen men were taken into custody here during the night by military intelligence authorities and were to be questioned today in connection with the investigation into alleged radical activities including bomb and anti-government plots. It also is said army intelligence agents have in their possession a list of several hundred alleged radicals among whom a number are believed to be leaders in the radical movement.

Several men, including Anton Gorski who was said to be under surveillance in connection with the explosion of a bomb in the Chicago postoffice in September, 1915, were questioned yesterday and it was stated Alexander Ivanoff, believed to be the maker of the 36 bombs sent from New York to prominent men throughout the country last June was being sought.

Intelligence officers, conducting the raids on places suspected in the Red plots were interested in the finding of a quantity of radical propaganda printed in German and a large silk German flag.

No Change in Steel District

OBSERVE THEIR GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Pollard yesterday observed their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Mansur st. Messages of congratulation and best wishes were contained in scores of letters and telegrams received during the day, while members of the immediate family and close friends called to extend their greetings in person.

Among the quantities of flowers and other remembrances received by Mr. and Mrs. Pollard, perhaps the one which meant the most was a cluster of 50 yellow chrysanthemums which accompanied a framed set of resolutions and best wishes from the employees of the A. G. Pollard Co. The Union National bank of which Mr. Pollard is president, also remembered the day with a beautiful gift of flowers.

Mr. Pollard, who has come to be one of the city's foremost business men, came to Lowell in 1854. His first position was secured in the office of Hilton, Keyes & Lewis, dry goods dealers then established in the Wells block. He afterward became secretary of the board of assessors and in 1861 entered the employ of Hecum Hosford, dry goods merchant. It may be said that his present success dates back to that time, for ever since he has devoted most of his time to that line of business.

In 1841 he was admitted as a partner in the firm which afterward was known as the H. Hosford Co. In 1856 he purchased the Hosford interest in the company and became the sole owner. Later he admitted Harry Dunlap and his son, Harry G. Pollard, to partnership and the concern was then converted into the present A. G. Pollard Co.

In October, 1892, Mr. Pollard married Miss Martha M. Fuller of Keosauqua, N. Y. They have two children, Harry G. Pollard and Mrs. William T. Sheppard and three grandchildren, Edith Martha Sheppard, Arthur G. Pollard 2d and Harry G. Pollard, Jr.

Mr. Pollard's public positions have been many. At the present time he is president of the Union National bank, trustee of the Central Savings bank, a trustee of the Massachusetts Agricultural college and of the Lowell Textile school, a director in the Lowell Mutual Fire Insurance company, president of the Stony Brook railroad, president of the Lowell Hosiery company, and president of the Lowell General hospital. Also he serves as a trustee of the Old Ladies' home and of Rogers Hall school.

His public spirit and eagerness to give tangible evidence of his deep civic pride and love for the town of Plainfield, N. H., where he was born, are evidenced in many material ways. He presented the town its soldiers' monument, gave the land for and erected a public school which bears his name and gave the community its park and flag pole. The clock in the Plainfield town hall also is his gift, as is a handsome memorial window in the Baptist church, given to perpetuate the memory of his grandparents.

A republican in politics he served as a delegate to the national convention which nominated Theodore Roosevelt for president. He was at one time vice president of the Massachusetts Republican club, president of the Middlesex County Republican club and at the present time is serving as vice president of the Home Market club.

His fraternal life has been almost entirely given over to the cause of Free Masonry and he stands among the highest in rank in the city, state and nation, having been honored with prominent official positions in the general grand bodies of the United States.

All merchandise timber in the central United States. It is estimated, will be exhausted in 20 or 25 years.

Bids Too High

Electrical work of the proposed building there were eight bidders, four from Lowell. The lowest bidder was the M. B. Foster Electric Co. of Boston whose figure was $13,614.

Six proposals for completing the plumbing work in the proposed auditorium were received. Five of them were from Lowell firms. F. D. Kirby of Boston submitted the lowest bid. The amount was $17,295.

The heating contract was sought by three Boston firms. The lowest bidder was the McLean & Cousens Co., whose figure was $68,611.

The ceremony attending the opening of the bids was of the most simple nature. Members of the auditorium commission, John H. Harrington, chairman; Arthur L. Eno, clerk; Mayor Perry D. Thompson, Clarence H. Nelson and Walter L. Parker, entered the auditorium chamber shortly before 11 o'clock, accompanied by C. H. Blackall of the firm of Blackall, Clapp & Whittemore, architects of the auditorium, and Harry Prescott Graves, their local representative.

There were about 50 people present in the chamber. Mr. Parker moved that the commission proceed to the receiving of bids for the construction of the auditorium and it was so voted.

Chairman Harrington explained that the method of procedure had been outlined at a previous meeting. Those who wished to submit bids, he said, should hand them to the chairman who would give them to the clerk who was to place them in the centre of the table.

At 11:30 the bidding was to be declared closed and the proposals opened. Bids then began coming in and continued for about 20 minutes. They were piled in the centre of the table. Promptly at 11:30 the chairman, at the vote of the commission, declared the bids closed. The chairman then opened each bid, one at a time, and read the details of it twice. He then handed it to Clerk Eno who verified what the chairman read by again reading the proposal aloud.

After the last bid had been opened and read Mayor Perry D. Thompson moved that the commission adjourn to meet at the call of the chair and at 12:07 such action was taken.

The bids received for the various kinds of work were, in detail, as follows:

Wilson Against Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—President Wilson will not sanction adjournment of the national industrial conference until it had exhausted every possible means of finding a solution of the present industrial situation, White House officials said today.

Despite his illness the president was understood to have been informed of the tense situation in the conference resulting from the controversy over labor's proposal for arbitration of the steel strike. He was said to feel that this should not endanger the ultimate

Steel Strike Issue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Arbitration of the steel strike appeared today to be blocking the pathway of the national industrial conference. Resuming its sessions yesterday after a three day recess the conference within a few minutes after it was called to order by Chairman Lane, ran head-on into the arbitration issue and the rest of the day was given over to discussion of the steel strike. The same subject was technically before the conference when it resumed its meeting today.

The members of the labor group, who are demanding that the conference turn its attention to the steel strike expressed the opinion today that if the steel strike issue were cleared through adoption of some method of arbitration, the remainder of the task of establishing a new relationship between labor and capital would be comparatively easy. To the contrary delegates representing the employers asserted that once the conference takes up the steel strike it will mean an endless chain of mediation proposals, including the proposed coal strike, the longshoremen's strike and the New York printers' strike.

Having voted down the Chadbourne substitute proposal for mediation of the steel strike, the original proposal of the labor group was before the conference today. Some of the public delegates, including Dr. Charles W. Eliot, are known to oppose injection of the steel strike controversy into the conference so the proposal from the public group must go before the conference lacking unanimous support.

CAPITAL GROUP DEMANDS ACTION

Insists Proposal for Arbitration of Steel Strike Be Made Immediate Issue

Wilson Against Adjournment Till All Means Are Exhausted to Solve Problem

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Demand that organized labor's proposal for arbitration of the steel strike be made an immediate issue in the national industrial conference, was made today by the capital group, through its chairman, Harry A. Wheeler, Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the public group, had proposed that action on the steel resolution be postponed until Thursday.

Postponement of action on the resolution previously had been agreed to by the labor and public groups, and the opposition of the employers came as a surprise. Samuel Gompers, chairman of the labor group, who conducted a vigorous fight yesterday against sending the arbitration resolution back to the committee of 15, was detained by illness. He was represented by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

On a ruling by Chairman Lane that the Baruch motion was one of procedure on which individual votes could be cast, action on the steel resolution was postponed until next Thursday and the conference recessed until afternoon. The public and labor groups cast their individual votes for the Baruch motion.

SHOE SHOP PICKETERS FINED $25 EACH

Fines of $25 each were imposed by Judge Fisher in police court today in the cases of three so-called "peaceful picketers." George W. Racine, business agent of the Allied Shoe Workers union, John Zimmerman and Joseph Hebert, found guilty of threatening John Hooghasian, referred to as a "strike breaker," at the Spaulding Shoe Co., where a strike has been on for 12 weeks. Hooghasian's testimony was that the three "picketers" had shouted up to him, as he was standing near a window in the plant on Oct. 4, that they would pull off his mustache and beat him up if he would come outside. All three entered an appeal.

The case was first heard last Friday, when Atty. E. J. Tierney presented the evidence for the prosecution. Hooghasian testified.

SAMUEL GOMPERS ILL

A. F. of L. President Said to Be Suffering From a Nervous Breakdown

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor is confined to his home here in a state of nervous exhaustion. His temperature this morning was 101 degrees and his physician has ordered him to remain in bed.

Announcement of Mr. Gompers' breakdown was made by his secretary when the national industrial conference convened today. He issued the following statement:

"Mr. Gompers returned home from the industrial conference last evening very greatly exhausted and went immediately to bed. His physician, Dr. Henry Parker, was called in to see him. He found Mr. Gompers in a state of nervous exhaustion, with a temperature of 101. The doctor said it would be absolutely necessary for Mr. Gompers to remain in bed."

Mr. Gompers' illness results, labor leaders said, from months of unremitting work at home and abroad, in connection with the peace treaty, the international labor congress at Amsterdam and the steel strike.

The veteran labor leader was stricken when he reached his home last night after delivering an attack in the industrial conference on the United States Steel corporation for its refusal to deal with the steel strike committee. His friends recalled that the day was the first anniversary of the death of his daughter and they said this fact probably aggravated his condition.

Those who heard Mr. Gompers' impassioned address in the conference yesterday, realized that he was laboring under a tremendous nervous strain and the announcement of his illness did not come as a surprise to his associates in the labor group.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, was elected chairman of the labor group in the conference today to act for Mr. Gompers.

Labor leaders said that if Mr. Gompers' illness proved so serious as to make it impossible for him to discharge the duties of president of the federation for any considerable time, the executive council of the federation would be called to elect a temporary successor. It was said that James Duncan, first vice president of the federation, probably would be designated to act.

VOTE TODAY ON SHANTUNG

Agreement Reported Reached By Democratic and Republican Senators

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A vote by the senate late today on the Shantung amendments to the peace treaty was planned by republican leaders with acquiescence, it was said, of the democrats.

Republican spokesmen said inquiries were sent to Senator Johnson of California, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, and other republicans regarding speeches of the Shantung amendment and that they agreed to curtail their remarks.

Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee, author of the Shantung amendments, also was said to have agreed to a vote today.

Adoption of textual amendments would mean defeat of the peace treaty and would accomplish no practical result that could not be brought about by reservations, the senate was told today by Senator Colt, republican, Rhode Island.

Referring to the Shantung amendment and that proposed to equalize voting power in the League of Nations, the Rhode Island senator declared they would reopen peace negotiations while reservations would leave the treaty intact and would change its provisions only for the reserving nations.

It would be unfair, he argued, to increase the voting power of the United States as proposed in the amendment of Senator Johnson, republican, California, and leave the other first class powers with only one vote in the assembly.

Poles Take Kovno in New Drive in Baltic Region—Many Killed in Riga

(By Associated Press)

Today's developments from Russia are of an extremely discouraging character for the bolshevik regime. General Denikine, whose forces are advancing on a front of about 450 miles through central Russia, has in the center captured Orel, only 235 miles from Moscow and the most important railroad center south of the capital. The northwestern army of General Yudenitch, also operating on a broad front, is reported to have smashed through the bolshevik lines west and southwest of Petrograd and to be within 50 to 75 miles of Petrograd all along the front. Meanwhile Kolchak's Siberian armies are improving their advantage along the Tobol river and are now within a few miles of the boundaries of European Russia, from which they were driven by the recent successful bolshevik offensive.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 15.—The Poles have begun an offensive against the Germano-Russian forces in the Baltic region, according to a message received here from Riga. They are reported to have captured Kovno, 60 miles northwest of Vilna, near the Courland border.

BREAK IN RANKS OF STRIKERS

N. Y. Ferryworkers and 15,000 Longshoremen Back at Work

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The strike of longshoremen and other harbor workers, which has paralyzed port activities here for several days and threatened a serious food shortage, was broken today when the ferryworkers and 15,000 of the 50,000 longshoremen returned to work. Union leaders predicted that by Friday, all of the longshoremen would be at work.

The ferrymen at midnight unexpectedly decided to return immediately, accepting, with reservation, the government's compromise wage increase offer. Before dawn all of the ferries were plying the Hudson as usual.

Six longshoremen's locals, with a membership of 15,000, have voted to return at once and strike leaders said the remainder of the unions would take action during the next few days. The strikers voted to abide by the wage award of the national commission, pending further negotiations on Dec. 1.

The teamsters' strike remains in force as the men decided last night that they would not return until they receive more definite propositions concerning an adjustment of their demands.

It was announced that half of the city's food reserve had been consumed through the joint strikes of the longshoremen and teamsters.

BISHOP GARRIGAN DEAD

Noted Churchman Received Early Training in Lowell—Sketch of His Life

Right Rev. Philip J. Garrigan, D.D., bishop of the diocese of Sioux City, Iowa, and a former resident of Lowell, died Tuesday noon at his residence in the western city after a brief illness. He had recently celebrated his 80th birthday.

In the death of Bishop Garrigan there is noted the passing of another member of the large company of ecclesiastical leaders who received their early training and education in this city and who later left a marked impression in the spiritual sphere in which they gave unstintingly of their time and talents. Of this company the late Bishop of Sioux City may be termed as one of the most accomplished and able.

Relatives of Bishop Garrigan reside in this city and the first word they received of what proved to be his fatal illness came in the form of a telegram Saturday saying that the bishop was seriously ill. Miss Alice T. Lee, of 12 South Walker street, well known as supervisor of primary grades in the local school department and president of the League of Catholic Women, a niece of Bishop Garrigan, made preparations immediately to go on to Sioux City, but was unable to get accommodations until Monday morning.

Rev. Michael Ronan, late pastor of St. Peter's church of this city, was one of Bishop Garrigan's most intimate friends and Rev. Fr. Ronan had the pleasure of serving as one of the deacons at the funeral.

BIDS TOO HIGH

On Opening Proposals Auditorium Commission Finds Lowest Cost Excessive

Estimates Will Have to Be Cut as No More Money Will Be Asked For

Proposals for the building of Lowell's new memorial auditorium were received, opened and publicly read by the auditorium commission in the auditorium chamber at city hall this forenoon and it was found that if the estimates of the lowest bidders are accepted, the commission would have to have at least $100,000 in addition to the $1,000,000 already voted. Following the opening of the bids John H. Harrington, chairman of the commission, stated that the figures would have to be cut before the commission would proceed further with the work.

According to the lowest bids received this morning the auditorium construction will cost $382,310. The architect is entitled to six per cent. of this amount for his services, or $22,938.60, making a total of $405,248.60. The commission now has on hand about $500,000.

The call for bids brought forth a fairly large number of proposals, considering the present uncertain labor situation and high cost of materials. No less than 24 concerns entered bids for the completion of various parts of the building. Just one half this number were Lowell firms and the rest of Boston, New York or Springfield.

The bidding was divided into four general classifications: General contract, plumbing, electrical work and heating.

There were seven bidders for the general contract, three of Lowell and the others from out of town. The lowest bidder was Connors Bros. Co., Inc., of this city, whose bid was $382,000. It awarded the contract, this firm agrees to have the building ready for occupancy on or before Oct. 15, 1920. The other Lowell firms which took part in the general contract bidding were William Drapau and P. O'Hearn. The Fred T. Lay Co., Inc., of Springfield, was the second lowest bidder and was the only firm to enter a proposal on the cost plus basis. This firm estimated the cost of labor and materials for the building at $726,250, plus a fee of $55,160, making the total estimated cost to the city $781,410.

DISCOVERY OF "HUMAN JUNK HEAP"

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Discovery of a "human junk heap" was announced by officers of the house of correction at Deer Island today. Charles W. Buzzell of Montreal, serving a sentence of one year for forgery, was found to be suffering from stomach disorders. An operation resulted in the recovery of two pounds of miscellaneous articles from his stomach. The collection, Dr. L. C. Rockwell said, included parts of a dog chain two feet long, a safety razor blade, nearly whole, a suspender buckle and 175 fragments or pieces of glass; hay, wire, staples, nails and screws. Rellor, one of these substances Buzzell quickly recovered. It was said.

The prisoner had been accumulating the collection with suicidal intent, according to Dr. Rockwell's statement, since last December. He had previously made a similar cumulative attempt to end his life but it was frustrated by an operation performed in New York, he said.

FAMOUS NOVELIST HERE

Lieut. Coningsby Dawson
Thrills Large Audience
With Story of the War

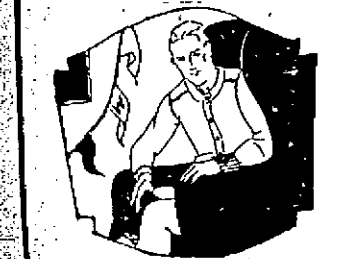

A war recital of thrilling incidents, told by a man blessed with a fine visionary sense and great powers of imagination was unfolded at the First Congregational church last night by Lieut. Coningsby Dawson. This writer of "The Glory of the Trenches" and "Carry On" spoke before a capacity audience and held his listeners spell-bound.

The lecture was the first of a series arranged by the Down-Town Men's club and Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins, pastor of the church, served as presiding officer and introduced Lieut. Dawson.

In part, he spoke as follows: "This spring I made a trip to Germany. In order to do so I had to traverse most of the battlefields of the north of France. I travelled in a Red Cross train, now converted into a Cologne express. All night long we had been going over these old battlefields. The train had been stopped at little outposts where officers were getting in and out. I had learned that their particular duty was to try and keep law and order, and to try and bury our dead, many of whom were at that time still unburied. Toward morning I fell asleep, and awoke to find that we were in some town. I asked an orderly where we were, and he said at Mons. Perhaps you hardly realize what Mons stood for in the life of the fighting man. This war has been singularly lacking in anything legendary. But at Mons there was one uplifting touch of legend. It was the one place where men believed that God had been with us.

A Thin, Weary Line

You will remember that in 1914, when the Germans were driving through to the capture of the channel ports, there was a thin line of weary men, and that was all that was between the Germans and their goal. If they had driven past Mons they would have won the war before Christmas.

Mysteriously, they turned back when the prize was within their grasp. The legend grew up that the Germans had seen the hills beyond Mons crowded with horsemen. There were no horsemen there. There were a few hearsemen. These horsemen were the horsemen of heaven, and men believed that Mons was the one spot where God had fought for the allies.

"Our eyes have been blinded by gazing into the furnace of heroism of the past four years. We cannot see our world in proportion. We are in very much the same condition that I was in that morning in Mons. We had all talked about 'after the war.' We had seen the building of this new world while the war was on. It was with us in the trenches. It was here with you at home. You came to the end of the war and open your eyes on this new world which all idealists have been speaking of, and it seems as though what had been said was mere propaganda, to keep you cheerful until the necessity for courage was ended. It looks as if we had all sunk back into the old class distinctions and the old economic strife. I want, if possible, to let you hear what I heard that morning at Mons, the song of the spring bird calling and promising the summer that is coming.

Must Forget War

"Now, directly the war is over, the slogan has gone up all over Europe at least, 'Let us forget the war.' You have the same desire over here. That is quite natural. People have been joyless, they have been anxious, and they want to realize that they are alive. But the best people who say that do not mean what they say. Let us forget the squalor and the horror of the war, but do not let us forget the obligation. The only person who says 'Let us forget the war,' and means it, is the person to whom the war is a reproach because he or she did nothing.

Strikes Jeopardize Europe

"In the last strike in England, when the railroad men went out, the transportation workers realized the danger. They knew that a certain class of men who had grievances were jeopardizing the entire future of Europe. The transportation workers held the balance in their hands. If they had gone out, Europe would have starved. But the transportation workers were almost to a man, men who had been in the transport service at the front. They saw that the issue was higher, that humanity was at stake just as it was when they fought at the front. They refused to go out, and they saved the situation. In Europe among the soldiers there is a general belief that the day of the strike is over. When men have rubbed shoulders at the front, have seen men who were below them rise above them because they are superior fighting men, they have a very different feeling toward the workman.

"Before we can re-make the world we have to re-make ourselves. I think that is one reason why we have not found this dream city which we had in our minds when the war was on. We had to demolish our instinct to destroy. Every time we dug a trench in France, every time we made a shambles, we dug a trench and we made a shambles in our own minds.

Belgium a Shambles

"I have been to France and Germany and Belgium in order to find out what kind of a world we have to re-make. About two-thirds of industrial France is almost beyond repair. The war has broken machinery. They are so impoverished for men that they are planning to run their factories in some cases almost wholly with women. Belgium's case is even more pitiable. Belgium is one heap of ashes.

"It is an affront to pass out of Belgium into Germany. There is greenness, prosperity and a sort of smug contentedness. You have heard of here many stories about the condition of Germany. I am afraid the misconceptions that many people have must be laid at the door of your own statesmen. While the war was on we wanted to believe that Germany was down and out. We won the war. Germany very wisely turned around and O. K'd everything we had said about her. Of course she was down and out. If we did not help her, she would not be able to pay the indemnity!

A Cordial Welcome

"For what it is worth, I will tell you what I saw in Germany. I had been wondering what kind of a reception I would get there. I was a British officer in uniform, and I knew what kind of reception a Prussian officer would get in New York. But I found I was welcomed like a long-lost brother. I had come from England, where you could not get into a hotel for love or money, and when you did, they were constantly hinting that it was time for you to get out. In Germany a porter with a shattered leg and an iron cross met me, and my things and asked me if I would like a hot water bottle in my bed. That was in the spring! He finally told me he hoped I would enjoy myself! Right through Germany, I found this was their line of approach. Finally I asked a German about it. I said I should have thought they would have been very bitter, having set out to conquer the world and having been conquered. He said, 'We are not conquered, we have won.' They had won—only I had not seen it. He said: 'We went to war for commercial reasons. We wanted to extend our world trade. Truly, we did not succeed in capturing big territory, but what we have succeeded in doing is putting out of business our most dangerous trade rivals. France cannot get on her legs, Belgium cannot get on her legs, until we have paid our indemnity. We shall have a start ahead of France and Belgium to capture the world trade. We have won.' From their point of view they have won. I started to speak to them about the atrocities. They were perfectly unconscious-stricken."

TAKEN BY BOARD

The board of trade directors discussed Plan B charter and the double platoon system for the local fire department at their monthly meeting held last evening in the New American house, but took no definite action on either matter. Owing to the lack of sufficient information on the double platoon question, the directors neither endorsed nor disapproved it. Although no action was taken on the charter question, the report of the committee appointed to consider the question and compare Plan B with the present form of charter was strongly against Plan B. The report was made by Francis M. Qua.

The meeting followed an excellent dinner. James W. Jantzen, an engineer of the local fire department, was the first speaker, and he summarized the benefits to be derived from the double platoon system both by the firemen themselves and the city at large. He cited instances where it was in effect in other cities and stated that the heads of the departments there had admitted that the double platoon made for efficiency. He estimated that it men would have to be added to the department and the expense would be about $1400 a year for each man.

weights and measures, gave a comprehensive report of the sugar situation locally and alleged that hoarding was one of the big causes of the so-called present "shortage." He predicted that sugar may soon cost 25 cents a pound. The matter was reported to the committee on commercial affairs.

Francis M. Qua then gave a report of the charter committee in which Plan B was compared with the present charter. The report was accepted. Mr. Qua then gave an informal talk in which he said that Plan B was entirely wrong in theory.

Routine reports were given by Fred Hayward for the special committee on concerts, Paul Chandler for the transportation committee, Daniel Carroll for the home loan bank investigating committee and Fred Weld for the committee on finance.

SPECIAL MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD

In order that the proposed junior high school system may be gotten under way in this city, the school committee was scheduled to meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock to elect a temporary superintendent of schools in the absence of Supt. Hugh J. Molloy who is serving in Boston with the state guard.

Efforts have been made to have Mr. Molloy released from duty in Boston, but seemingly without success. It is rumored that Henry H. Harris, at present master of the Varnum grammar school, will be chosen to fill Mr. Molloy's position temporarily.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come:

THE STRAND

Here's good news for the patrons who have been unable to secure admittance at The Strand during the first three days of the week:

Douglas Fairbanks in "His Majesty, the American," has been secured for the last three days of the week. Public demand caused the management to keep this wonderfully interesting eight-reel special for the remainder of the week. It "turned 'em away" during the first of the week, and so many were disappointed that it was decided to give every one an opportunity to see it.

Today offers the last chance of seeing magnificent Kitty Gordon in her latest and best picture offering, "Adele," and beginning tomorrow George Walsh in "The Winning Stroke" will be shown in conjunction with the bill that includes Fairbanks in his special. It will be a "battle of stunts" between these stellar lights of the screen. Come and see which one dares the rest in the way of hair-raising accomplishments.

Though Douglas Fairbanks' picture, "His Majesty, the American," is as peaceful a film as the lively Douglas can make, he was materially assisted in making it by a lot of Uncle Sam's fighters. The director of the picture is Corp. Joseph Henaberry, this being his first motion picture work since his return from the army. He is a decorated hero of the war, and his daughter plays a very important part in the production. Frank and Milt Britton, "Two Jazz Beans," give a neat musical act with xylophones, cornets and trombones putting out the harmonies. McCormick and Wallace, who are ventriloquists par excellence, have a little play all their own called "At the Sea Shore" and it is full of novelty. Other acts are: Allen & Lyman, in a comedy; Dunley & Co.; Barbotte and Delano & Pike.

LOWELL GUILD

STEADILY GROWS

That the Lowell Guild is steadily increasing its efficiency with each passing month was proved at the monthly meeting of the organization held last night at the Guild house on Dutton street, when the new superintendent, Mrs. Kahlsalt, made her report on the activities of the guild during the month of September, which is appended below.

Mrs. Charles E. French was appointed to represent the guild on the tuberculosis council taking the place of Mrs. Robert F. Marden, who recently resigned, and considerable routine business was transacted.

The total visits for the month of September were 1040; number of nursing visits for Metropolitan policyholders, 400; number of paying and free visits, 325; number of baby calls, 311; number of babies at conferences, 15.

Co-operating agencies: Social Service League, International Institute, Lowell Corporation hospital, Lowell General hospital, Miss Skilton, Miss Adams, Boston Floating hospital, Children's hospital of Boston and Humano society.

LODGE ATTACKS JAPAN

Brands Empire as Menace to U. S.—Debaters Resort to Personalities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Senator Lodge in a prepared speech supporting the Shantung amendment before the senate yesterday, branded Japan as a menace to the United States and scored the empire in the Orient for her broken pledges.

The senator from Massachusetts alleged that the Japanese are building an empire in China which will prove dangerous and declared that she will continue to break her pledges in furtherance of her scheme for China's exploitation.

The five-hour debate over Shantung became bitter, and there were many clashes. Repeatedly the gavel sounded to keep order. Once it was ruled that language used violated the senate's rules by imputing to senators conduct unworthy and unbecoming.

The declaration to which formal objection was taken was made by Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota. In the course of a heated exchange with Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, and had to do with charges that Japan was acting in bad faith in the promise of her statesmen to return Shantung province to China.

"Japan was our associate in the war," said the North Dakota senator, "but I knew that now that the war practically has ended, many senators prefer to consider her as our enemy. Germany seems to be more an object of solicitude than our friends who helped us defeat Germany."

Reed Challenges McCumber
"If the senator means that," shouted Senator Reed, "I want him to name the senators to whom he refers."

Senator McCumber retorted that he would not recent utterances in the senate speak for themselves, and when he declined to yield to further questioning by Senator Reed the latter appealed to the chair, declaring loudly while Senator McCumber continued his speech, that the language used had been unparliamentary.

When he had quieted the disputants, Senator Ball, republican, Delaware, temporarily presiding, thumbed through a senate rule book while a half dozen other members tried all at once to get in a word of advice. Senator Reed then withdrew his objection, whereupon Senator McCumber declared he had no

Intention of taking back what he had said, and insisted that the clerk read the passage of his speech which had been questioned. That brought a renewal of the Missouri senator's protest, Senator Ball ruled the language out of order, and Senator McCumber resumed with the remark that he hadn't in the least changed his mind about the truth of what he had said.

Reply to Lodge

Senator McCumber, a republican member of the foreign relations committee, was speaking in reply to Chairman Lodge of the committee who had just concluded a prepared address supporting the Shantung amendment.

In replying, Senator McCumber argued that the proposed amendment would be of no avail, because Shantung already was in Japan's possession, and altering the treaty would not change that possession. On the other hand, he said, the League of Nations would put "the civilized world with a grip upon Japan's throat" to compel her to make good her promises to restore the province to China.

Later Senator Reed made an extended argument against the league, asserting that if it had the power to force Japan to give back Shantung, it certainly would have the power to compel the United States to do whatever it desired. He argued that the league council and assembly would not be judicial bodies, because every member would be an interested party in any big world question.

Reed Gets Into Tilt

Senator Reed also engaged in a series of heated exchanges with Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the administration leader, who challenged a number of his statements about the practical operation of the league. The colloquy reached a climax, when the Missouri senator made a passing reference to the arms embargo bill, which he said Senator Hitchcock had introduced after the sinking of the Lusitania, "well knowing that if it passed, the Germans soon would be pounding at the gates of Paris."

The administration leader declared the bill had been introduced in December, 1914, at the first opportunity after the war started, and that the statement that it was after the Lusitania sinking was a sample of the "reckless statements" Senator Reed had been making "all over the country." Later Mr. Reed showed the measure had been reintroduced in December, 1915, and Senator Hitchcock said he never had apologized for the bill and never expected to, having presented it in the interest of peace and neutrality.

No progress was made during the day in the reading of the treaty text, nor was any agreement reached for a time to vote on the Shantung amendment. Today the senate will meet an hour earlier in the hope that several hours may be given over to the reading, though Senator Owen, democrat, Okla-

Has He Found a Cure for Asthma?

Simple Prescription Gives Instant Relief. Makes Breathing Easy.

In New England, where Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis and other diseases of the throat and lungs are so prevalent, remarkably successful results are being reported following the use of a new form of treatment known as Oxidaze, a physician's prescription. Oxidaze is a harmless but powerful combination of curative essential oils concentrated and compressed into a small tablet. One of these tablets slowly dissolved before going to bed seems to have the effect of releasing the muscular constriction of the bronchial tubes, opening up the air passages and regulating spasmodic lung action. This enables the patient to breathe easily and naturally while lying down and to get a comfortable night's sleep.

So much interest has been shown that local druggists, including Lowell Pharmacy, have secured a small supply and state that they are authorized to refund the money paid for the first package if in any case this new treatment fails to give relief. Oxidaze is pleasant to take, contains no harmful, habit-forming drugs and is not expensive. This makes their test an easy matter.—Adv.

$73,239 TO GOVERNMENT FROM WORLD SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Nearly as much money was paid to the United States in war taxes as accrued to the club owners of each of the teams that participated in the recent world's baseball series. It was estimated today. For the eight games $73,239 was paid to the government as war tax, while Chas. A. Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox and Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati Reds got approximately $95,000 each. But from that amount it is stated, it was necessary to deduct the expenses of erecting temporary seats, players' salaries, the cost of transporting the players from one city to the other and their hotel bills, leaving the clubs just about the same amount as went to the government.

GOVERNMENT IN DANGER

Sen. Poindexter Warns
Against "Supine Inaction"
Toward Radicals

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Warning that there is "real danger that the government will fail" if it continues its attitude of "supine inaction" toward the radical elements over the country was given yesterday in the senate by Senator Poindexter, republican, of Washington.

Referring to propaganda circulated at Gary, Ind., urging steel workers to revolt and establish a dictatorship, Senator Poindexter said there was "ample proof of the revolutionary movement, not only at Gary but throughout the country." Many of the strikes now in effect, he added, were called "in pursuance of the revolutionists' plan to strike down all government."

The Washington senator offered a resolution asking why the department of justice had not proceeded against the circulators of revolutionary propaganda. Senators Thomas, democrat, Colorado, questioned the need for the resolution. He said the steel strikers in his state had no grievance, that they were fighting for nationalization of the steel industry.

Before the house immigration committee, Representative Welby, democrat, Ohio, urged that all aliens now in the country be required to register immediately and that undesirable ones be deported without delay. He declared that recent events at Gary and Pittsburgh indicated that the government should know the character and whereabouts of all aliens in the United States.

Senator Poindexter declared there was ample proof that the revolutionary movement was not confined to Gary, but menaced the entire country.

"It has ample funds," he said, "and systematic organization. I believe the government should take vigorous action to suppress anarchy. If the government continues an attitude of supine inaction there is real danger that the government will fail."

The senator said he did not intend to reflect on the attorney general in his resolution and agreed to its amendment today to avoid any such construction.

Senator Pomerene, democrat, Ohio, said his information was that strike leaders were holding out the inducement that the plants would soon be in the employees' hands as a means of getting them to remain in the unions.

Senator Poindexter said striking longshoremen at New York had held up food and everything else except Col. House's baggage. If their demands were granted, he said, it would give them absolute control of their employment while ship owners would have no voice.

Every strike, he added, increased the cost of living faster than the attorney general could reduce it.

Immediate registration of all aliens and the deportation of undesirable was urged before the house immigration committee by Representative Welby, democrat, Ohio.

"Recent events at Gary and Pittsburgh," he said, "indicate that the government should know the character of aliens now in this country and know where they are all the time."

Mr. Welby and Representative Slegel, republican, New York, placed blame for delay in naturalization of foreigners on congress, which, they said, had so reduced appropriations for this work that it had been necessary sharply to reduce the force engaged in it.

WHITE SOX OUTCLASSED

Moran's Mad Men Had Greater Edge Than Shown by Figures

(By Fred Turbyville)

The figures on the world series, while giving the Reds a big edge over the Sox in every department of the game do not emphasize the superiority of Moran's men. The Reds far outclassed the White Sox. After the Reds had the Sox the sixth and seventh games to the Sox the majority of experts, who had picked the Sox to win the series, at last believed their hope was a thing of the past.

There were some well pitched games in the series. Eddie pitched two, I expected that. Whether pitched a great game opening day. Bud Eller performed twice in grand shape and old Slim Saltee marked up a victory. Jimmy Ling, who I thought might be a dark horse, turned in one of the best pitched games of the series. Claude Williams didn't come up to my expectations but Dicky Kerr surprised all of us.

Outside the pitching the Reds outclassed the Sox—with about three exceptions. Ray Schalk was not outclassed. Neither was Buck Weaver or Joe Jackson. The others were. The mighty Eddie Collins was outclassed by Morris Rath. A White Sox catcher, Rath outdid Eddie 225 to 218. He scored five runs to Eddie's two. Both made two errors and a bad play or two. Collins showed poorly. Rath outdid himself.

In figures Gandil looks equal to Dabbert but the fans who saw the series know that old Jake pulled some miraculous fielding stunts around the initial sack. Jake batted .244 to Gandil's .232. Jake had two errors and Gandil one. Among the hits each had a triple.

Kopf far outclassed Risberg, both in fielding and hitting. He cut down some almost sure hits. Risberg was an easy target. Kopf had one error, Risberg four. Kopf batted .222 and Risberg only .080.

Buck Weaver showed better at third. Helme Groh had several errors and misplays chalked against him. He also failed to bat. His batting mark was .172, while Buck hit the ball at a .321 clip. Helme had two errors and Weaver none. In the first few games of the series Helme covered the ground wonderfully and showed great class. In the sixth and seventh games he fell down poorly. Buck was one of the real heroes of the Sox.

In the outfield Eddie Roush was the star of all. Time and again he pulled off sensational catches and saved the Red pitchers. In every game played he had a wonderful catch or two to his credit. One of the back-ers of the Reds presented Eddie with a handsome gold watch valued at more than $500 for his great work in the series. His batting was not as good as his fielding. He hit .211 while Nault hit .351 and Duncan .269. Both Nault and Duncan performed miraculously at times. The trio outshone the Sox in the field every day of the series. Joe Jackson wielded a hefty bat. He clouted at a .375 clip. Felsch disappointed Sox fans by hitting only .185. John Collins hit .230 and Nemo Leibold .055.

For the series the Reds batted .255 and the Sox .221.

For the series the Reds batted .255 and the Sox .221.

Doesn't that prove the superiority of National league pitching this year? The Reds outclassed the Sox in the series 355 to 366.

The Reds hit for 57 bases and the Sox for 52. The Reds made 35 runs and the Sox 20.

The Reds made seven double plays, the Sox nine.

The Sox had 45 men left on bases and the Reds had 37.

The Reds stole six bases off Schalk and Lynn, and the Sox stole four off Burdett and Wingo.

The Reds made eleven sacrifice hits and the Sox six.

The Reds had two sacrifice flies and the Sox one.

82ND ANNIVERSARY

Mount Holyoke College Celebrates—Pres. Neilson of Smith Discusses War

SOUTH HADLEY, Oct. 15.—Mount Holyoke college today observed the 82nd anniversary of its founding by Mary Lyon. The program included an academic procession to the chapel and an address by President Allan Neilson of Smith college.

Referring to some of the results of the war, President Neilson said:

"Democracy has not made much progress among the allies, however we may have aided it among our enemies."

Dr. Neilson raised the question whether hopes of a new world, free from the horrors of strife were justified by developments of the 11 months since the conclusion of the armistice.

"Should America," he said, "turn her back upon the shattered and mangled nations that the war has left, the question of a new world would need no further answer. And as for permanent peace—we should not need to discuss it for there would not be even temporary peace."

"We hoped for more than peace, however. We were going to establish a condition of affairs that would give democracy a fair chance. Democracy has not made much progress among the allies, however we may have aided it among our enemies."

"The covenant of the League of Nations brought into currency a political conception new to the common man—the conception of mandates. We must not listen to those who would have America decline its share in this most promising device for a reordering of the world."

"It is not a new world,—yet. But I do not believe that the light that glimmered along the horizon during the gloom of the war was a false dawn. With all the partisanship rampant at this moment, it is hopeful that it is no longer possible to know a man's position on the future of the world merely by learning with which party he is used to vote. With all the industrial strife, there has been enormous improvement in the attitude of the employer, and signs are not lacking of statesmanship in the ranks of labor."

It is not believed, moreover, that he will take up a residence in this city even after all his interests are centered here.

PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Lloyd George Active in Fight Against Alcoholism in Britain

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Mrs. David Lloyd George, wife of the British premier, is taking a prominent hand in the prohibition campaign, addressing a meeting of 2000 women at Glasgow yesterday.

Despatches received here quote Mrs. Lloyd George as saying that the success of the campaign depended upon women.

"It is the duty of women to help the victims of alcoholism at home, as it was to help the victims of Prussianism in Belgium, five years ago," Mrs. Lloyd George is reported to have said. "Scotland is on the eve of a great campaign, and next year the eyes of temperance reformers throughout the world will be focused on Scotland. If Scotland is won the victory will be a great stimulus to the world to do likewise."

FIGHT AGAINST ALCOHOL IN FRANCE

PARIS, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—The fight against alcohol will be a leading plank of the national platform in the forthcoming elections. Ministers are demanding the absolute suppression of alcohol and the walls of Paris and the larger cities are already placarded with these demands, and pamphlets and posters have been mailed by the hundred thousand to hotels and individuals in the provinces.

"If France does not suppress alcohol, alcohol will suppress France," the posters proclaim in huge characters, and then "three million individuals live upon the traffic of alcohol; 25 million suffer and die from it."

Contributions of $200,000 for maintenance and an adequate teaching force have been made by personal friends of Mr. Marston. Plans already are considered for a new gymnasium.

HOW N. Y. CITY CHILDREN CARE FOR THEIR TEETH

The principals of New York's public schools only allow the children to receive such dental preparations as contain no grit to scratch the tender enamel, no drugs to inflame the delicate gums. Mothers should be equally careful at home.

Mrs. E. Jackson of Public School 75, and Mr. Romeo J. Perrotti of No. 85, both of New York, are glad to have their pupils use Albidon Dental Cream. They have investigated and know it is both effective and safe. Albidon is calcium carbonate, saponified and mixed with the well-known oils of clove, cinnamon and eucalyptus, making a composition one-third cleansing, one-third polishing, one-third antiseptic. Authorities agree this is best for women and children. A tube of this cream containing sufficient for 35 brushings can be bought for 25c at any drug store.—Adv.

THE PEACE TREATY

France is now celebrating the ratification of the peace treaty and the official end of the war with Germany. Germany ratified the treaty some two months ago and official notice of her action in this respect was duly recorded at the French foreign office. Similar evidence of ratification by Great Britain and Italy may be filed to-day or at least is promised some time this week.

Thus, so far as the treaty of peace is concerned with these three powers, peace will be officially declared and the League of Nations will automatically come into existence. Moreover, all the restrictions upon personal freedom which are necessary in time of war will be abrogated and the people of all three nations, can then devote their entire time to the problems of reconstruction, rejoicing that the war with all its horrors is over and that the blessings of peace are again restored.

Unfortunately the senate of the United States has wrestled with the treaty for several months and yet no decision is in sight. There is little doubt as to what the verdict of the nation would be if the question of ratifying the treaty were to be submitted to the people as a whole, but there can be no such submission. The senate must pass upon the treaty one way or another; and public opinion favors prompt ratification in order that peace may be officially declared and that congress may give its entire attention to the pressing problems of reconstruction. If the senate must have reservations and interpretations let them be formulated and adopted, but let there be final action for the ratification of the treaty in order that peace with Germany may be declared without further delay.

Further discussion will serve no useful purpose. If the senate should insist upon radical changes which would destroy the value of the covenant as an international compact for the prevention of war, President Wilson would probably reject it altogether and then this nation would have to make a separate peace with Germany and return to the state of isolation from which she emerged to enter the world war.

It is difficult to see why there should be such a terrible dread of entering the League of Nations in view of the fact that due provision is made for withdrawal by any nation that after entering does not wish to remain. What the people want now is a return to peace conditions, a peace that will be permanent and lasting, one that will tend to maintain peace throughout the world as well as in the United States, for the reason that in the present state of close international relations no great nation can be indifferent to any serious military operations between any other two nations. The commerce and even business of the United States would suffer from a war even of secondary proportions in Europe or Asia. It is, therefore, in the interest of all nations to promote universal peace by adopting the League of Nations and giving it a fair trial. If it does not meet the expectations of those who have advocated it most strongly, it can easily be amended and if in any case it should prove detrimental to the interest of the United States to be a member of such an international peace pact, then the door is always open for withdrawal. Why kick up such a fuss over the ratification of the treaty just as if it were something unchangeable, and liable to bring irreparable disaster?

If by any mischance this nation should fail to enter the League of Nations, then to be perfectly safe we should have to maintain military and naval armaments ready to defend our shores against any two of the other great nations and to keep continually prepared for war. Between such alternatives we can see but one sensible choice.

OUR CRIPPLED SOLDIERS

Congressman Rogers has introduced a resolution asking that an investigation be made into the work of the commission on vocational training of wounded soldiers. Mr. Rogers has had a number of complaints from which he has concluded that either something is wrong or else the commission is very unjustly abused.

The commission has undertaken

a prodigious task in planning to rehabilitate 170,000 wounded men. That the results thus far are disappointing is not strange considering first the fact that wounded men are in a great proportion of cases not in a sound physical condition and that if they are, it takes considerable time to make them experts at any business with which they are wholly unacquainted. To make men who have lost legs and arms, who are blind and decrepit, fit for expert service is a very slow process; and the fact that the commission cannot turn out these war heroes as finished workmen after a few months' training, may not occasion surprise to anybody.

It is said that there are 170,000 of these soldiers and thus far only 8000 of them have been started in vocational courses. It is charged that as $10,000,000 was appropriated for the purpose, better results should be forthcoming. The authors of that charge may discover that no amount of money will avail to transform such men into experts in a few months.

The work was started over a year ago but months were spent in planning what would be done. Everybody wants to see all that is possible done for the disabled men and the outcome of the investigation will be watched with interest.

In face of the demand for an inquiry, Congressman Fess has introduced a bill providing that not only soldiers but all crippled industrial civilians shall have the benefit of industrial vocational training. This is another example of the tendency to have the federal government usurp state rights. It was not surprising that this proposition was met by a strong protest by Congressmen Walsh and Treadway of Massachusetts on the ground that it is state business.

That Congressman Fess, a republican leader, should propose such a thing indicates a strange view of the extent to which federal authority should extend over the states in time of peace. The case of the wounded war veterans is entirely different. They were in the service of the federal government and the proposition to train them for business pursuits is something entirely new. The practicability of the scheme has never been fully tested and whether the government is on the right path, and just what its plans and achievements in this line are, will undoubtedly be brought out in the investigation. One thing certain is that the commission has attended to the clerical end of the business in fine shape, as scarcely a day passes without bringing to this office, and we presume every other newspaper office in the land, finely written articles upon the way in which crippled soldiers are to be trained for efficient service in a great number of selected trades and professions. It cannot reasonably be assumed that crippled soldiers can learn a trade or profession in one-half or one-third of the time required by a person who has the full use of all his limbs and powers of mind and body.

THE SUGAR SUPPLY

The sugar shortage may mark the beginning of uncontrolled price raising in that commodity.

Or it may serve as a timely warning and as an object lesson in the need of further federal supervision in an essential industry. "Unprecedented domestic demand," is reported by the American Sugar Refining Co., and one reason for this demand is undoubtedly the relaxation of federal authority in the distribution of this food necessity.

The agreement between the Sugar Equalization Board and Herbert Hoover expires Dec. 31, 1919. Legislation to extend the system of regulation which solved our wartime sugar problem is before congress. Profiteers are about the only ones who could desire the defeat of the bill to insure American households a steady and reasonably cheap supply of sugar.

Members of the Sugar Refiners' National committee say that resumption of zone control would reverse the present situation in a week. The charge that the domestic shortage is caused by excessive exports is met with the statement that actually about 100,000 tons have been exported, which is said to be about ten days' supply for the United States.

Other sugar shipments out of the United States were from purchases made by the British royal commission from the United States Sugar Equalization Board of a part of the last Cuban crop. This was refined in the United States for the allied governments.

For a year the wholesale price of sugar has remained practically stationary. Americans pay less for their sugar than any other people in the world. The Hoover plan has made this possible. It has benefited every household budget in the country.—N. E. A.

PLEA FOR KINDERGARTENS

Commissioner Claxton of the National Education bureau sends out an appeal to the educators of the country urging greater attention to kindergarten work. Drawing lessons from the changes brought about by the war, he states that the institutions of government, including our own, will be severely tried and tested and that to meet future contingencies it is important to provide protection against reaction toward autocracy on the one side and class rule, disintegration and anarchy on the other. In building up an educational system to protect and promote American democracy as the hope of the world he holds that the kindergarten should have a very important place. The spirit of the school originated by Froebel, he asserts, has a tendency toward freedom, initiative, self-restraint, co-operation and obedience to law.

The kindergarten, he says, did not receive governmental support in Germany because of its spirit of democracy and that the founder of the system looked to America for the attainment of his ideals in education.

It is rather remarkable that Commissioner Claxton should lay so much stress upon the education of very young children and so little upon the training of children in after years. He is probably right, however, in believing that the adult is largely governed by the principles instilled into his mind in the early years of his school life.

There seems to be a discrepancy between this appeal on the part of the commissioner and one recently issued by Herbert Hoover in behalf of underpaid college professors. Mr. Hoover believes that there is an actual danger in the meagre salaries paid many college professors as he feels that they may abandon their positions and go out to preach Bolshevism. This does not harmonize with the claim that education alone can uphold our democratic institutions against the menace of socialism, Bolshevism and anarchy. Unfortunately it is a fact that some college professors have been found as leaders among the socialistic element and even among those who favor the soviet form of government. Perhaps it was a few instances of this kind that led Mr. Hoover to make such a statement, but it would be unjust to judge the entire class by the action of a few who have followed an erratic course. The colleges and universities have taken care to silence or discharge the professors who have shown ultra-radical tendencies.

RATE OF WAGES

The National Industrial Conference board has given out a statement of the results of an investigation of the increase in wages from September, 1914, to March, 1919. It shows that the weekly earnings of men have increased from 62 to 110 per cent. It appears that the increases shown are in a number of cases greater than the percentage increase in the cost of living which was placed by a previous report of the board at 61.3 per cent for the same period. The comparison made shows that the largest percentage of increase in weekly earnings up to September, 1918, was recorded in chemical, metal, rubber, cotton and wool manufacturing industries. In the three latter groups, however, there was a sharp falling off during the period from September, 1918, to March, 1919, which, however, was due to a reduction in the number of hours constituting a day's work, and also in part to the disorganization attending a return to the peace time basis.

WHEN A CHILD HAS CROUP

Thousands of mothers say Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is the best remedy for croup they know. It cuts the thick choking mucus, clears away the phlegm, opens air passages and eases hoarseness. The gasping, strangled fight for breath gives way to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. T. J. McCall, Athens, O., writes: "We have used Foley's Honey and Tar in our home for years and find it invaluable for coughs and colds—especially for croup for our children. We are never without it and cannot too highly recommend it."

MAN ABOUT TOWN

If ever you reach that stage where you feel that a complete rest is essential to your well-being, take a little trip from one who knows, pack up a few "roughing it" clothes and make for the celebrated Berkshires hills. Western Massachusetts boasts many wonderful achievements and accomplishments, but had she nothing else to offer but her rambling, towering, colorful hills to expectant visitors she would have done all that would be necessary to win the admiration of thousands. The Berkshires are unique among hills and a week spent in them makes the observer an admirer immediately. The trip under discussion at present was centered in Ashfield, a town of a few thousand people snugly up in the northeastern corner of Franklin county, ten miles away from railroad and presenting a main street that more resembled a fabled arch of leaves in some celebrated European forest lands than the principal thoroughfare of an up and doing American community. In early October its beauty challenges description. Not only do the colorful leaves from trees on either side of the street meet overhead forming an arch, but the ground itself is carpeted with brown, yellow and gold.

Ashfield is high up in the "mountains" as the natives are wont to call their beloved hills and at no time is it super-heated. Last week the evenings were particularly cool and the extra blanket at the foot of the bed was quickly utilized for its designed purpose. The town has no industry beyond the inevitable farming and fruit cultivation. Apple orchards are everywhere and at all times of the year do they form a beautiful feature in the general color scheme. The driver who brings you over the road from the railroad station points with pride to a hollow in the hills known as "Apple valley," where thousands of barrels of apples are raised annually. In the changing colors at this time of the year, the trees are admirable, but they are nothing as compared with the springtime when the white blossoms burst forth and light up the hollow of the hills in celestial white. And this is only one of hundreds of interesting features that the inhabitants never tire talking about. The town hall is an ancient affair, bearing over its doorway the tell-tale date of 1813, yet once inside one would never suspect that his surroundings were more than a century old. Ashfield is by no means a dead town. There is practically no means of artificial illumination except electricity and away out on the outskirts of the town where the farmhouses are few and far between, what seemed the height of suburban modernity was reached when the housekeeper explained that water was pumped from the ground into her kitchen sink by means of electricity. When you wanted a drink of water, you turned a switch, a motor began buzzing and soon water was forthcoming. A string of electric lights illuminate the principal thoroughfares of the town in the evening.

It is her summer hotel that has brought the town most fame. It is a lengthy wooden building, several stories high, and modern in every aspect. New York and Springfield people are very familiar with it as many of them live there the entire summer. Lately tourists from the eastern part of the state have become acquainted with it as the result of brief stop-overs on auto trips. And just at present the chief topic of discussion and speculation in Ashfield is the transfer of the hostelry from the hands of a man who had conducted it for years to a newcomer. The transfer is a real event in the town's history and having the annual speculation early in September as to who the new school teachers will be in the several grade schools and one academy that the town boasts. It easily outranks all other topics of conversation. The visitor is given a full history of the hotel, the faults and excellencies of the proprietor are pointed out candidly and speculation as to the new owner is rife. For people must talk.

But as aforesaid, Ashfield was merely the headquarters of the present trip. With the Mohawk trail, celebrated in history and automobile advertisements, beckoning on the one side and the inviting city of Springfield calling from the other, it was hard to resist the allurements of a hired machine, a talkative driver and pleasant companions. Springfield, 45 miles to the south, was first undertaken. The start from Ashfield was made early in the morning and mile after mile was spun off through hills, hills and then more hills. Now the engine was pounding as if she was worth to get you up over an incline and then you were coasting downhill without an effort. The scenery was ever changing and neatly laid out towns passed by incessantly. Smith college with its bevy of pretty students enjoying their Saturday respite was an attractive feature. Northampton was of interest because it is the home of the present governor and Holyoke charmed with the beauty of its residences. Finally Springfield itself with its white-uniformed street sweepers, trim looking policemen and stately looking office buildings gave the impression of a Boston whose streets had been straightened and thoroughly cleaned.

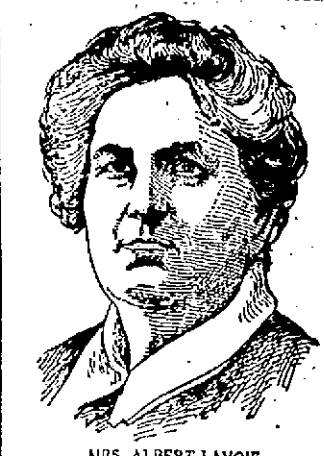

As for the Mohawk trail, language is but a poor substitute for eyesight. All that has been said about the natural beauty of Ashfield, it multiplied tenfold, will apply to the trail. For a good part of the way it winds along the Deerfield river and reminds one a bit of his own Merrimack river boulevard. But there are the incessant climbing, tortuous curves that seem to plunge you right into the heart of the towering hills. On one side you are flanked by a mass of color rising in almost perpendicular walls that seem to end abruptly. On the other is a continuous panorama of distant hills, little communities nestled in the foothills near at hand and the omnipresent brook or river. Finally you come to Whitcomb's summit where Indian souvenirs are for sale and later to the still loftier altitude of the hairpin turn, another reminder of Lowell and her celebrated turn on the boulevard. Here an observation tower enables you to look off into North Adams, the terminus of the trail and the city is but a speck in the miles of country open to your vision. Over to the left you can see a lofty mountain top and when you look again, its crest is enveloped in a cloud. And yet it seems but on a level with your own position. Finally comes the trip home with its even accentuated beauty and the dawning realization that men and women in cities are leading but confined lives at the best. A bit of depression overtakes you, but masterfully you overcome it in the realization that a warm kitchen fire, plenty of pleasant chatter and a warm supper awaits your return to Ashfield. And these are the Berkshires, monuments such as man may never hope to erect in honor of the world's greatest heroes.

Change of Life cured by RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women.

MRS. ALBERT LAVOIE
I was constantly troubled with rheumatism, headaches, sore back, sore legs, etc. My appetite was fickle and irregular and I was fast becoming discouraged with my lot. My nervousness was getting the best of me, and with my numerous family of fourteen children, for whom I was giving myself up, soul and body, things were looking rather gloomy and one pain was rapidly succeeding another, and I was getting weaker every day. I started to take RED PILLS for pale and weak women, and continued using them for quite a long time, with such success that I gradually became stronger and the numerous pains which had been the cause of so much suffering disappeared one by one.

The recent case which came up in the local police court, in which a man was ordered to pay a fine of $25 by Judge Enright for hitting a dog with his auto and then driving away without stopping to ascertain how badly the animal was injured or leaving his name and address indicates that the police are up in arms against heedless and drunken autoists who seem to

HUN SHIPS TOOK 500,000 DR. KUNO MEYER DEAD AMERICANS OVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The German interned ships put into service of this country during the war carried a total of 531,619 troops to and from France. They took more than 500,000 troops from American ports, or one-fourth the total delivered when the armistice was signed, and brought back more than 400,000. The Leviathan alone carried a total of 170,000 men.

This was the testimony yesterday of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director general of transportation, before the house military affairs committee.

The transport fleet numbered 616 vessels at the time of the armistice, he said. They were in fine shape to carry additional forces and supplies to the total of 2,086,000 men sent abroad. Within the borders of the United States, to and from camps, 13,819,691 men were transported on the railroads. Forty million tons of freight were carried on the railroads in this country during the war. Five million tons of cargo were sent to the American Expeditionary Forces.

Gen. Hines said the service of mobilizing supplies reached the point where this government was able to ship 200 locomotives a month to France. They were 13 days enroute from factory to railroad track in France.

ROYAL PARTY ENTERS YOSEMITE VALLEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—King Albert of Belgium with Queen Elizabeth, the heir apparent, Ambassador Brand Whitlock and others making up the royal party touring the United States, were on their way today to the Yosemite valley, where they expected to arrive in time for luncheon.

The king proved yesterday that the late Theodore Roosevelt had very little edge on him when it came to leading a strenuous life, for in addition to receptions, luncheons, dinners and other official welcomes, he talked with the Belgian consul general at New York on the long distance telephone; visited a vaudeville show and enjoyed moving pictures of himself taken a few hours before; took a swim in the Olympic club tank and otherwise kept busy up to his departure at midnight for the Yosemite.

German Professor Widely Known Here Was First to Predict World War

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—Announcement is made in Berlin of the death in Leipzig of Dr. Kuno Meyer, professor of Celtic language and literature at the University of Berlin.

Dr. Kuno Meyer was a lecturer widely known in the United States. He was born in Hamburg Dec. 20, 1858. Dr. Meyer was virtually the first prominent person to predict that the war between Germany and England, France and Russia would develop into a world conflict. In 1917 he wrote an article entitled: "Our war aims in enemy eyes," which quoted a conversation with Col. Theodore Roosevelt and attracted wide attention. Later he wrote an article for the Berlin press, saying Germany had lost the friendship of the United States after the sinking of the Lusitania. Dr. Meyer was in this country at the time of the catastrophe.

one of honor at the mass of consecration which elevated the priest to his new dignity.

On Wednesday evening, May 28, 1902, Lowell council No. 72, of the Knights of Columbus of which the distinguished prelate had formerly been a most zealous member, gave a banquet and reception to their honored brother which will be readily recalled by the older members of the council. The committee in charge was headed by Rev. W. George Mullin, formerly assistant pastor at St. Peter's church in this city, but now pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Bishop Garrigan is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ann Farley, of this city, and Mrs. Bridget Grant, of Dorchester; three nephews, Rev. Philip J. Lee, of St. Mary's church, Turner's Falls; Rev. William Grant of St. Peter and Paul's church, South Boston, and Philip Garrigan of this city, and three nieces of this city, Miss Alice T. Lee, Miss Mariette Lee and Miss Elizabeth Garrigan. He is also survived by a number of nephews and nieces out of town.

Miss Lee arrived at Sioux City this morning but early last evening her family received word by wire from the bishop's secretary that death had come peacefully to the venerable prelate yesterday noon. For the past few years the bishop had been in failing health and a year ago an auxiliary bishop was appointed to assist him in his duties. Bishop Garrigan, however, was able to direct the affairs of his diocese almost up to the time of his death.

He went to Sioux City 17 years ago and was the first bishop of that diocese. In this period he built up the diocese into one of the largest and most thriving of the western part of the country. Trinity college for boys, one of the largest educational institutions in the west, was brought into being during Bishop Garrigan's term of service and a large orphanage is another memorial to his well-spent life. In addition the bishop was one of the leaders in the founding of the famous Trinity college for girls at Washington, D. C., and had the honor of laying the corner stone of that institution. Deep interest in all matters pertaining to education was one of the notable features of his career.

Bishop Garrigan was born in County Cavan, Ireland, in 1839. He came to Boston in 1844 but a few months later the family moved to Lowell. He attended the Old Moody grammar school here and spent two years in the Lowell high school. In September, 1862, he entered St. Charles college, Maryland, with the intention of becoming a priest.

In 1866 he went to Troy seminary where he was ordained in June, 1870. Immediately he was appointed to St. John's church, Worcester. He met with marked success in his duties at St. John's but his reputation at the seminary was so marked that he was recalled there in 1873 and made director. Two years later he was offered the pastorate of St. Bernard's church, Fitchburg, and assumed his duties there in October, 1875.

But the educational field called once more for the able services of the Fitchburg pastor. Accordingly, when the Catholic university at Washington was opened and the eloquent Bishop Keane of Richmond placed at the head, the question of who should be second in command came up and was answered by Father Elliot, a famous Paulist father, who is quoted as saying that Father Philip Garrigan would be the ideal man for the place.

Rev. Fr. Garrigan was at once offered the vice-directorship of the university. This was in the mid-summer of 1888. In the fall, after due deliberation, he tendered his acceptance and with the bishop's permission, left for his new field. This office was held until 1902 when, in recognition of his services to the church, he was consecrated bishop of Sioux City on Sunday, May 25. He was given the right, however, of resuming his old place as rector of St. Bernard's any time within the year. He did not return to his pastoral duties.

Bishop Garrigan's consecration will be recalled by a number of Lowell people who were present at the ceremony. It was held in the presence of priests and prelates comprising the dignitaries and princes of the church from all sections of the United States. Added impressiveness was given the ceremony by the receipt of a telegram from His Holiness, the late Pope, Leo XIII, congratulating the new bishop and giving him and his people the papal blessing.

Bishop Garrigan's parents were Philip and Alice Garrigan of this city who have long since passed away. The bishop was an intimate friend of Rt. Rev. Monsignor O'Brien, pastor of St. Patrick's church, this city, and was also acquainted with a number of the other older priests of Lowell. His last visit here was five years ago.

Miss Alice T. Lee had been on to see her distinguished uncle only a few weeks ago and at that time he was able to come to the station to see her off. Another intimate friend of the bishop was Bishop Daniel Feehan of the diocese of Fall River. He had visited Bishop Garrigan in Sioux City only a few weeks ago and had been accustomed to visit him twice yearly.

ITALY'S NEW PROPOSAL

Foreign Minister Tittoni

Would Annex Volosca in Lieu of Fiume

ROME, Monday, Oct. 15.—Foreign Minister Tittoni, who left Rome yesterday for a conference with King Victor Emmanuel at the royal shooting lodge at San Rossore, on route to the peace conference, expressed confidence before his departure that his new proposal for the settlement of the Fiume and Dalmatian problem would be received with favor since, he declares, it practically accepts the proposal of President Wilson in regard to Fiume.

He asks only the annexation of the district of Volosca lying between Fiume and Trieste to Italy in order to establish a joint boundary between the enlarged kingdom of Italy and the proposed buffer state, Fiume.

"This insignificant annexation of a little strip of land and a few thousand inhabitants," as it is characterized here, would give, he argues, the triple advantage of preventing Fiume from being entirely surrounded by Jugo-Slavia, avoiding contact between Italy and Jugo-Slavia and of affording a certain moral satisfaction to the Italians, thereby facilitating the task of the cabinet of inducing them to accept the compromise.

As another feature of his proposal, Minister Tittoni asked that the island of Lagosta be added to the other Dalmatian islands assigned to Italy under the original division of these islands between Italy and Jugo-Slavia. The project, besides making Zara, capital of Dalmatia, a free city, provides that it be represented diplomatically by Italy.

Sig. Tittoni realizes that the project will not satisfy the Italians, who feel that Fiume, through the principal of self-determination and its Italian preponderance, has the unquestionable right to be annexed to Italy. Despite this opposition, however, Sig. Tittoni thinks that the Nitti cabinet is strong enough to have the plan adopted by a large majority of the parliament. The country, it is pointed out, is anxious to see the Adriatic problem solved and to take up the problem of reorganization and reconstruction vital to the revival of prosperity.

The foreign minister hopes that these concessions will be met by the United States in a spirit of conciliation. In the realization of "the enormous responsibility resting on Washington if refusal should cause complications

"It Seems as Though my Back Would Break."

This is a common expression among women, yet they toil on day after day heedless of the significance of this distressing symptom.

Backache is often a warning of some inward trouble that requires attention, and which unless relieved will sooner or later declare itself in more serious ailments.

If it is caused by female derangement Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is what you need. It quickly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women.

For more than thirty years this good old fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring American women to health.

I have recommended your Vegetable Compound and Blood Medicine and three of my friends are taking it to their advantage. You may use my name for a testimonial."—Mrs. THERESA COVENTRY, 75 Burnett St., Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Hunt tells how it helped her Detroit, Mich.—"I was in a general run-down condition, was very nervous and tired, had backache and other troubles. I suffered for several years, was not able to work at times and tried doctor's medicine with no results. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, and after taking it a short time I was much better. I am still taking it myself and giving it to my daughter, and am glad to recommend Vegetable Compound at any time."—Mrs. M. E. Hunt, 171 Davison Ave.

To Reach Paris Today

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Tommaso Tittoni, the Italian foreign minister, will reach Paris during this afternoon. It was announced here today. He left Rome on Monday for a conference with King Victor Emmanuel at the royal shooting lodge at San Rossore on the way here.

It is understood that Foreign Minister Tittoni is bringing to the peace conference a new proposal by Italy for the settlement of the Adriatic dispute.

The project as it has been outlined creates a buffer state of Fiume and proposes that Italy shall annex the district of Volosca, lying between Fiume and Trieste, in order to establish a joint boundary between Italy and the state of Fiume.

ROME, Oct. 15.—(Havas)—Foreign Minister Tittoni will represent Italy in the League of Nations, according to an official announcement.

ENDURANCE RACE

NORTHFIELD, Vt., Oct. 15.—Notwithstanding the lead won in the first leg of the 300 mile cross country endurance test for cavalry horses by "Bob," the half-thoroughbred, owned and ridden by Col. C. P. George of the general army staff, none of the other 12 contestants expected to push their mounts in today's run. They will, rather, save their energies for the fourth and fifth days when the maximum speed will be required.

The first run of 60 miles from Fort Ethan Allen yesterday was over a difficult course, and veterinarians who examined the horses when they arrived here last night pronounced them all in excellent condition. Interest was centered on the examination of "Bob" who is not only a half-breed and 13 years old, the oldest horse entered, but is an "overseas" veteran, having been in engagements at Chateau-Thierry and Soissons. He was also a member of the punitive expedition in Mexico in 1916.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate, has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

CASE AGAINST CARMEN TO END SATURDAY

After hearings covering six days, the trial of the three Lowell street car conductors, J. J. Kelley, Camille Chloine and John E. Wallace, accused of stealing fares from the local division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., will be concluded Saturday morning. The cases of both the prosecuting attorney, Fred N. Wier, and Edward J. Tierney, counsel for the defense, were completed yesterday, leaving only the arguments to be presented by the two attorneys to bring the trial to a close.

The case was opened before Judge Enright in Lowell police court a month ago.

The case was then continued until Oct. 8 when the prosecution presented further "spotter" evidence in connection with the alleged fare stealing. The prosecution closed its case on Oct. 9 and at yesterday's hearing, which consumed the greater part of the day, the three defendants testified to their own defense.

All admitted that they had withheld fares on various occasions in September, but said they had done so to make up discrepancies caused by the inaccuracy of the Rooker register or portable fare boxes, and had in no instance kept any money rightfully belonging to the company and converted it to their own use. On some occasions they had made up money from their own pockets caused by the "over charging" of the registers or fare boxes, they declared.

At yesterday afternoon's session, which concluded the testimony for the defense, John J. Kelley took the stand and in response to questions by E. J. Tierney, his counsel, said that he lived at 237 Branch street and had been employed by the local company for nearly two years. Previous to his present employment he had been connected with the real estate business in Lowell, and had also worked as a private detective for New York jewelry firm.

The Rooker register and also the portable fare boxes were very inaccurate at times, he said, particularly the Rooker "gun." It was a common thing for it to become clogged and skip several fares and on various occasions he had turned in the "gun" and received a new one. He had been forced to collect fares and ring them up on the hand register or punch a transfer for each fare collected on some occasions when the Rooker had balked, he declared.

He admitted withholding fares at times when the register was overcharging him in order to balance the discrepancies. He also said there were times when his claims against the company for inaccuracies caused by the register did not result in his employers canceling their indebtedness to him. He had endeavored to make passengers deposit their own fares whenever practicable.

The last defendant to be called, Camille Chloine, said he was 19 years old and had been employed by the local company for one year. He also gave considerable testimony as to the inaccuracies of the Rooker register, and said that on one occasion it had "jumped" fares to the amount of $1.40, which he had made up on the next trip. He denied, as did the other two men, withholding any money except when it was necessary to "balance" up the register or fare boxes as a result of overcharges. In one instance he found that his Rooker was inclined to jump backwards, and reported it to the man at the car barn.

Daniel S. O'Brien, a local real estate man, testified to the good character of Wallace, the defendant whose testimony was given at the morning session. Other local men testified to the honesty of the other two defendants. The cases were then continued until Saturday for argument.

GERMANY TO JOIN IN
SOVIET BLOCKADE

BERLIN, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press) The Kreuz Zeitung learns from "well informed" quarters the government will in all probability agree to join in the blockade of soviet Russia proposed by the Entente powers. It is said the government will lay down certain conditions incident to its participation. Several despatches received from Koenigsberg report that commercial and industrial circles there are uneasy because of the fear that a blockade of the Baltic would prove disastrous to East Prussia. Only limited quantities of necessities such as foodstuffs, coal and petroleum can be taken overland at present.

The blockade, it is said, would also prove harmful to commercial relations with border states where, despatches declare, "England is aspiring to assume a dominating influence."

CARGO MOVEMENTS ARE
HELD UP BY STRIKE

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Cargo movements were suspended on several docks and delayed on others today by the strike of nearly 1500 longshoremen at this port. Most of the dockworkers left their places yesterday. The strike was not sanctioned by the union, according to union leaders. Efforts were continued to induce the men to return to work.

Crews employed in the unloading of raw sugar at the American Sugar Refining Co.'s pier were persuaded to continue after they had stopped for several hours. Charlestown and South Boston docks were manned by about one-half the usual number of workers. East Boston docks were deserted except for the active patrol of pickets.

Dissatisfaction with the recent award made in New York by the National Adjustment committee was said to be the cause of the trouble here.

Riga in Flames

Continued

Possession of the city will give General Denikin a secure hold on vast stretches of territory in old Russia, as the place is one of the most important railway centers south of the present Russian capital.

Part of Riga Burning

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—Part of Riga is burning owing to the bombardment of the city by Germano-Russian forces, according to a Central News despatch from Helmsingfors.

Savage Fighting in Riga

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 15.—Savage fighting continues in the city of Riga between Lithuanian troops and the Germano-Russian army which entered the western part of the city last week. Reports reaching here state that shells have fired a portion of the town and that great damage has been done to the quays and harbor. Many civilians have been killed during the battle.

British warships have become involved in the fighting, having been fired upon by the Germano-Russian forces, and an unconfirmed report declares a British force has been landed in or near the city.

Blockade measures are seemingly being rigidly enforced in the Baltic, six German merchant ships having been captured by one British destroyer.

Huns Attack With Gas

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 15. (By A. P.)—The Germans are attacking Riga with poison gas and bombarding the town with trench mortars, says a Lithuanian foreign office communication issued Monday.

Great damage has been done to quays and the harbor, the communication adds, "and there have been many civilian casualties."

Let's Defend Riga

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Direct news from Latvia is being delayed on account of the disturbed state of the telegraph. Reports have been received in official circles, however, showing that the Letts are defending their positions at Riga against the invaders splendidly while the Estonian government has already rushed every available armored car to their assistance.

Considerable bitterness is displayed by newspapers in Estonia in regard to the policy followed by the allies. These papers assert that the German forces in the Baltic had been defeated last July and that the campaign would have been carried to a victorious completion if the allies had not insisted upon an armistice.

The democratic Journal Tallinna Teataja reminds the allies that diplomatic notes cannot eject Germans, who can, however, be driven out by an effective blockade or by a military occupation of Frankfurt-on-the-Main. Otherwise, the paper declares, the Letts and Estonians will be compelled to send their last man against the enemy that might have been defeated easily last July.

The labor organ Wabama declares that the menace to Latvia threatens the future peace of all Europe.

Bolsheviks in Detroit

STOCKHOLM, Tuesday, Oct. 14.—The Northwestern Russian army of General Denikin is reported here to have pushed some 35 miles beyond Yamburg, which it captured recently and to be within 20 miles of Gatchina, which is only 30 miles southwest of Petrograd. The taking of 1500 prisoners and nine guns from the Bolsheviks is announced. Confidence is expressed among the officers that Petrograd will fall before this attack.

In the course of the fighting the Red army is making use of mines to a great extent, blowing up the roads everywhere while retreating.

At Yamburg both officers and men taken prisoner are declared to have been pleased at being captured.

An armored train named "Lenine" and several armored automobiles, as well as 50 railway cars were among the material captured at Yamburg.

CANADIAN VETERANS
WILL EXPAND

Otto Hockmeyer was the principal speaker at a well attended meeting of the Canadian Great War Veterans' association held at the local "Y" last evening, at which the organization appointed the following committee to conduct a drive for a larger membership and to make arrangements for an entertainment or dance to be held in the coming weeks: Jack Waterhouse, Alfred Balfe, Jack Hearst, F. Carmen, J. S. Davies and Edward Ireson. President Jack Waterhouse presided, and it was voted to elect Mr. Hockmeyer and William A. Mitchell, agent of the Massachusetts cotton mills, honorary members of the body.

Mr. Hockmeyer spoke at some length on the need of holding together the men who served in the British or Canadian forces and made several suggestions for an increased membership. He also offered the association the use of the rooms at the War Camp Community Service club in Dutton street for a meeting place. In conclusion he announced that he had presented a gift of $100 to the treasury of the organization and that he would be ready to assist them at all times in their undertakings.

R. A. FLETCHER TO

Hanley; finance officer, Fred Healy; secretary, Frank Johnson; war risk officer, Harold Hildreth; historian, Carl Wright; executive committee, Dr. Harry Coburn, J. B. Murphy, J. B. Gray; this committee will also include the commander, vice commander, secretary and finance officer.

The following committees were then appointed: Entertainment, Joseph Thompson, Frank Johnson, Frank Charlton; athletics, Jack Spinner, William Courchaine, Edward M. Abbot, George Perkins, Leo Hildreth; dance, George Hanson, Leo Connell, John Spinner.

OPERATED MACHINE
WITHOUT LICENSE

Found guilty of operating an automobile without having a license in his possession and also operating in the evening without proper lights, Henry Quolette of Nashua, N. H., was fined $10 in police court by Judge Enright.

Accused of stealing $40 in cash and a watch and chain valued at $42 from John and Joseph Trafinczyk, respectively, in March, 1917, Peter Zwinczkowicz was found guilty and held for disposition tomorrow.

Verdict of $259

from a doctor, and I'll die before I do," so testified Joseph Marlon at the civil session of the superior court yesterday, when the triple action of tort against Undertaker Joseph Albert was being tried. Mr. Marlon said he is a carpenter by trade, but he hasn't done any work at his trade since the automobile accident, which occurred on the night of August 12, 1918 at Cheever and Pawtucket streets when the defendant's machine crashed into a telephone pole. The witness said when the crash occurred he was thrown forcibly against the side of the car and since that time he has felt pains in his stomach and abdomen.

Mrs. Marie Anne Marlon, wife of the witness, gave her age as 53. She said her physical condition has not been the same since the accident. She informed the court that on the night of the accident Undertaker Albert called at her home with her son-in-law, Napoleon Rondeau, and asked her to get into the automobile with them and go to Salem street on business. She did not care about going, but Mr. Albert insisted, saying it would do her good to breathe a little fresh air. She finally consented to go. From Salem street the party went to Mr. Albert's undertaking rooms. From there the machine was driven through Cheever street as far as the corner of Pawtucket, where the crash occurred. She was injured about the head, chest and back and was treated at the Lowell Corporation ## hospital, she said. She also testified to being attended at her home for several weeks by her family physician.

Napoleon Rondeau, another plaintiff, testified along similar lines relative to the accident and said his injury consisted of a large wound in the jaw, which required six stitches to close.

Dr. E. J. Clark, superintendent of the Lowell Corporation hospital, testified to the condition of the plaintiffs when they arrived at the hospital on the night of the accident, while Dr. L. V. Rochette told of treating Mrs. Marlon at her home after the accident.

Zemon Rondeau testified to being present in the auto when the accident occurred and said in his opinion the machine was being operated at about 20 miles an hour at the time. He said he was only slightly injured.

Undertaker Albert, the defendant, was called by counsel for the plaintiffs and said at the time of the accident he was operating his car at between 8 and 10 miles an hour. He said about two minutes after the accident he drove the injured persons to the hospital in his automobile. He said the damage caused to the machine was a broken front axle, a bent mudguard and a broken windshield. The plaintiffs' case ended at this point and the defendant offered no defense.

Use Famo for the Hair—
As You Use Any Other
Medicine—Every Day

FAMO is a medicine for the hair, and should be used as a medicine at least every morning.

Americans have been, and are, notoriously negligent of both their teeth and their hair.

Result—the almost universal prevalence of the twin scourges—pyorrhea and seborrhea.

Seborrhea is the deadly germ that kills the hair, and only by keeping after it with FAMO can you save your hair and make it grow.

FAMO does unquestionably kill the seborrhea germ—clears the head of this pest; more often than not in a single application.

FAMO does grow new hair, even when people are careless and only apply it infrequently.

But it is not fair to yourself, your hair, or FAMO, to run chances.

And you are running chances, if you use FAMO only once a week, or every now and then.

FAMO is sold at all toilet goods counters, in two sizes—$1 and 55 cents.

Seborrhea is the medical name for a morbidly increased flow from the sebaceous glands of the scalp. The seborrheic secretion forms in scales or flakes and is commonly known as dandruff.

12 ARRESTS IN BOMB PLOTS

Taken Into Custody During Night by Military Men at Gary, Indiana

Hunt Down Leaders of Radical Movement — Propaganda Printed in German

GARY, Ind., Oct. 15.—More than a dozen men were taken into custody here during the night by military intelligence authorities and were to be questioned today in connection with the investigation into alleged radical activities including bomb and anti-government plots. It also is said army intelligence agents have in their possession a list of several hundred alleged radicals among whom a number are believed to be leaders in the radical movement.

Several men, including Anton Gorski who was said to be under surveillance in connection with the explosion of a bomb in the Chicago postoffice in September, 1918, were questioned yesterday and it was stated Alexander Ivanoff, believed to be the maker of the 36 bombs sent from New York to prominent men throughout the country last June was being sought.

Intelligence officers conducting the raids on places suspected in the bomb plots were interested in the finding of a quantity of radical propaganda printed in German and a large silk German flag.

No Change in Steel District

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Aside from the situation at Gary, Ind., where disclosures of arrests of radicals, revelations of the discovery of alleged anti-government plots by federal authorities yesterday attracted nationwide attention, the industrial conditions in the Chicago steel district today showed no material change in the past 24 hours.

Observe Their Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Pollard yesterday observed their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Mansur st. Messages of congratulation and best wishes were contained in scores of letters and telegrams received during the day, while members of the immediate family and close friends called to extend their greetings in person. Among the quantities of flowers and other remembrances received by Mr. and Mrs. Pollard, perhaps the one which meant the most was a cluster of 50 yellow chrysanthemums which accompanied a framed set of resolutions and best wishes from the employees of the A. G. Pollard Co. The Union National bank of which Mr. Pollard is president, also remembered the day with a beautiful gift of flowers.

Mr. Pollard, who has come to be one of the city's foremost business men, came to Lowell in 1854. His first position was secured in the office of Milion, Keyes & Lewis, dry goods dealers then established in the Wells block. He afterward became secretary of the board of assessors and in 1861 entered the employ of Hiram Hosford, dry goods merchant. It may be said that his present success dates back to that time, for ever since he has devoted most of his time to that line of business.

In 1854 he was admitted as a partner in the firm which afterward was known as the H. Hosford Co. In 1856 he purchased the Hosford interest in the company and became the sole owner. Later he admitted Harry Dunlap and his son, Harry G. Pollard, to partnership and the concern was then converted into the present A. G. Pollard Co.

In October, 1869, Mr. Pollard married Miss Martha M. Fuller of Keeseville, N. Y. They have two children, Harry G. Pollard and Mrs. William T. Sheppard and three grandchildren, Edith Martha Sheppard, Arthur G. Pollard 2d and Harry G. Pollard, Jr.

Mr. Pollard's public positions have been many. At the present time he is president of the Union National bank, trustee of the Central Savings bank, a trustee of the Massachusetts Agricultural college and of the Lowell Textile school, a director in the Lowell Mutual Fire Insurance company, president of the Stony Brook railroad, president of the Lowell-Hosford company, and president of the Lowell General hospital. Also he serves as a trustee of the Old Ladies' home and of Rogers Hall school.

His public spirit and eagerness to give tangible evidence of his deep civic pride and love for the town of Plaisville, N. H., where he was born, are evidenced in many material ways. He presented the town its soldiers' monument, gave the land for and erected a public school which bears his name and gave the community its park and flag pole. The clock in the Plaisville town hall also is his gift, as is a handsome memorial window in the Baptist church, given to perpetuate the memory of his grandparents.

A republican in politics he served as a delegate to the national convention which nominated Theodore Roosevelt for president. He was at one time vice president of the Massachusetts Republican club, president of the Middlesex County Republican club and at the present time is serving as vice president of the Home Market club.

His fraternal life has been almost entirely given over to the cause of Free Masonry and he stands among the highest in rank in the city, state and nation, having been honored with prominent official positions in the general grand bodies of the United States.

All merchandise timber in the central United States, it is estimated, will be exhausted in 20 or 25 years.

electrical work of the proposed building there were eight bidders, four from Lowell. The lowest bidder was the M. B. Foster Electric Co. of Boston whose figure was $13,674.

Six proposals for completing the plumbing work in the proposed auditorium were received. Five of them were from Lowell firms. F. D. Kirby of Boston submitted the lowest bid. The amount was $17,995.

The heating contract was sought by three Boston firms. The lowest bidder was the McLean & Cousens Co., whose figure was $68,641.

The ceremony attending the opening of the bids was of the most simple nature. Members of the auditorium commission, John H. Harrington, chairman; Arthur L. Eno, clerk; May, or Perry D. Thompson, Clarence H. Nelson and Walter L. Parker, entered the aldermanic chamber shortly before 11 o'clock, accompanied by C. H. Blackall of the firm of Blackall, Clapp & Whittemore, architects of the auditorium, and Harry Prescott Graves, their local representative.

There were about 50 people present in the chamber. Mr. Parker moved that the commission proceed to the receiving of bids for the construction of the auditorium and it was so voted.

Chairman Harrington explained that the method of procedure had been outlined at a previous meeting. Those who wished to submit bids, he said, should hand them to the chairman who would give them to the clerk who was to place them in the centre of the table.

At 11:30 the bidding was to be declared closed and the proposals opened. Bids then began coming in and continued for about 20 minutes. They were piled in the centre of the table.

Promptly at 11:30 the chairman, at the vote of the commission, declared the bids closed. The chairman then opened each bid, one at a time, and read the details of it twice. He then handed it to Clerk Eno who verified what the chairman read by again reading the proposal aloud.

After the last bid had been opened and read Mayor Perry D. Thompson moved that the commission adjourn to meet at the call of the chair and at 12:07 such action was taken.

Wilson Against Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—President Wilson will not sanction adjournment of the national industrial conference until it had exhausted every possible means of finding a solution of the present industrial situation, White House officials said today.

Despite his illness the president was understood to have been informed of the tense situation in the conference resulting from the controversy over labor's proposal for arbitration of the steel strike. He was said to feel that this should not endanger the ultimate

Steel Strike Issue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Arbitration of the steel strike appeared today to be blocking the pathway of the national industrial conference. Resuming its sessions yesterday after a three day recess the conference within a few minutes after it was called to order by Chairman Lane, ran head-on into the arbitration issue and the rest of the day was given over to discussion of the steel strike. The same subject was technically before the conference when it resumed its meeting today.

The members of the labor group, who are demanding that the conference turn its attention to the steel strike expressed the opinion today that if the steel strike issue were cleared through adoption of some method of arbitration, the remainder of the task of establishing a new relationship between labor and capital would be comparatively easy. To the contrary delegates representing the employers asserted that once the conference takes up the steel strike it will mean an endless chain of mediation proposals, including the proposed coal strike, the longshoremen's strike and the New York printers' strike.

Having voted down the Chadbourne substitute proposal for mediation of the steel strike, the original proposal of the labor group was before the conference today. Some of the public delegates, including Dr. Charles W. Eliot, are known to oppose injection of the steel strike controversy into the conference so the proposal from the public group must go before the conference lacking unanimous support.
